Trionon Closes Its Doors; Building Will Be Razed

The Trionon officially closed its doors Sunday and auctioneers are expected in next week to begin cataloging the landmark's art treasures.

Everything will be sold that can be sold and the shell of one of Colorado's most famous buildings will be torn down.

Attorney John W. Metzger, head of the Trionon Foundation, blamed social and business leaders of the Broadmoor area and Colorado Springs for the demise of the structure which was designed by Stanford White in 1905.

Metzger, who Friday said he had no comment on the closing of the building when queried by the Gazette Telegraph, said that false reports about some of the Trionon land he tried to sell contributed to his decision to close the building.

"The lots were underpriced," Metzger said, "but we met with nothing but banking opposition. False reports were circulated that we couldn't give clear title and that it was unwise to build next to an eyesore."

He explained that he had attempted to sell 12 acres of Trionon to raise $300,000 to reduce the capital debt and assure permanency of the museum. Taxes were paid on the extra acreage, he said, but it was not needed for the operation of the museum.

The attorney, who said he personally has lost more than $200,000 since he took control of the replica of Louis XIV's sprawling 40-room Grand Trionon of Versailles, was bitter in his criticism of the area's business and civic leaders.

If the Trionon were located in any place except Colorado Springs — any place in the world — this would be a great success. The leaders of the community have done everything possible to drive it away," Metzger said.

He pointed to the fact that residents of the area in which the building is located prohibited him from erecting signs to point where the Trionon was located.

He said that approximately 30,000 persons toured the elaborate rooms this summer but this wasn't enough to meet expenses. The Trionon opened as a museum last January after County Commissioners bowed to public demand and granted a zoning change permitting it to operate as a museum. The charge was $1 per adult for the tour Sunday more than 3,000 persons formed long lines to get a last look at the many art treasures in the building which took three years to construct.

It was built by socialite Charles A. Baldwin who called it Claremont. Since its construction, the Trionon has served as a private home, a nuns' retreat, an art school and a museum.

The building's main concourse is 50 by 148 feet and the two wings are 30 by 88 feet each with ceilings on the main floor 22 feet high.

The sconces, door and cabinet hardware were fashioned by Paris designers in bronze, covered with 24-karat gold. A massive gold chandelier in the formal dining room was a gift to the Baldwins from Czar Nicholas II of Russia. It weighs 3,000 (Turn to Page A4, Column 7)

Ent Man Killed As Jack Slips Off His Car

Michael Gershenov, 20, 618 E. Boulder St. of Ent Air Force Base was accidentally killed Sunday when the jack slipped off his car and the vehicle fell crushing him to death, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Charles White, Gershenov was at the Marksheffel Drag Strip and had jacked his car up to remove the tailpipes. He crawled under it and the jack slipped crushing his chest and rupturing the spleen. A doctor and several attendants worked on him for 15 minutes before he died.

Tshombe's Army Recaptures Red Defended City

By ROBIN MANNOCK
LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe says his army has recaptured the strategic city of Albertville in the eastern Congo, but Communist-backed rebels are reported on the march again toward Bukavu.

Tshombe personally announced the government victory over Radio Leopoldville Sunday. He said the rebels left behind their weapons in the flight from the city. There was no confirmation from other sources. Tshombe said the rebels still held Albertville Airport, 12 miles from the city.

A spearhead of white mercenaries approached the airport last Thursday but were driven off by machine-gun fire. Five were wounded.

Tshombe said his troops freed 28 Europeans who had been held hostage. He gave no indication of the fate of about 100 other whites in the city.

Tshombe hopes the recapture of Albertville will give the demoralized Congolese army a psychological boost in its attempt to beat back rebel forces in the northern Congo. He recently began recruiting white mercenaries, including some veterans of his Katanga secession, after the Congolese army suffered a string of reverses.

Airplane Crash Kills Four Men at Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — The charred, barely recognizable remains of four men—and the wreckage scattered over an area of several hundred feet above the 11,000-foot level of Prophyry Peak.

The plane disappeared Friday en route from Aspen to Greeley. Aboard were two Roman Catholic priests and two Colorado State College faculty members. Aspen newspaper publisher and radio station owner, Bill Dunaway, a member of the search party, said the wreckage was scattered over an area of several hundred feet above the 11,000-foot level of Prophyry Peak.

The crash scene was about 15 miles northeast of Aspen — 30 miles by road. Jeeps took searchers within a half mile of the crash scene, Dunaway said, but it took them another hour and a half to negotiate their way through dense foliage and rocky cliffs to the wreck. The four bodies were found together, bent at grotesque angles. "You could tell they were bodies," Dunaway said, "but they were pretty badly burned." A few trees in the area were also still smoldering.

"There was no actual plane around the bodies," he said, "the engine and cowlings were there, and there were pieces of metal scattered around. The plane hit with terrific force.

"We could see that he (the pilot) had turned and was going back toward Aspen and came in straight on the Aspen side of a ridge," Dunaway said. He added that the plane sheered off several trees and "came in steep and very fast."

Aboard the craft were the pilot, Dr. Leonard Walsh, 39, a CSC faculty member, and an-

Weekend of Racial Rioting Marks Philadelphia Section

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A tense, uneasy quiet returned to the riot-ravaged Negro section of North Philadelphia today, after a weekend of violence, looting and pillaging.

Sporadic vandalism, window smashing and throwing of rocks at police continued into the early morning hours, but city and police officials said the situation remained under control and the four-square-mile trouble zone was returning to relatively normal operations.

Some 1,500 police saturated the area, which remained under a 24-hour curfew. Mayor H.J. Tate emphasized that a clear-the-streets order, issued Saturday, remained in effect. The proclamation, falling under an 1850 law, made it a misdemeanor, with a maximum penalty of two years in prison, for anyone to be on the streets without legitimate business.

Tate, in a progress statement late Sunday night, reported that 225 stores had been looted and more than 350 persons arrested for various violations. The injured totaled 247, including 66 policemen. Almost all of the injuries were minor and there were no fatalities.

One shooting was reported. Police said Robert Green, a 31-year-old Negro, was wounded Saturday night when he pulled a knife on a patrolman who was chasing persons throwing cans at a patrol car.

Tate estimated "several millions of dollars" in damages and other costs caused by the rioting, which broke out Friday night. The mayor pledged "the full assistance of the city administration in helping the affected merchants get back to normal operations as soon as possible."

The mayor instructed Fredrick R. Mann, city director of commerce, to meet with businessmen today to outline a proposed plan of assistance.

In a television appearance Saturday night, the mayor said the rioting had no relation to civil rights fights by Negroes, but was "criminal hoodlumism" (Turn to Page A4, Column 2)

Negro Masonic Hall and School Gutted by Fire

MOUNT STERLING, Ky. (AP) — On the eve of a threatened boycott of city schools by Negro parents protesting a change in integration plans, an all-Negro school and a building that served as a Masonic hall for Negroes have been destroyed by fire.

Montgomery County Attorney Henry Bramblett said he has requested state police be alerted for possible duty guarding the city's three white schools. The disturbances shattered years of calm in the state's school integration moves.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the state Department of Public Safety's arson squad sifted through the ruins of the all-Negro Dubois School today.

The school was burned Sunday while firemen were answering an apparent decoy call at a white school at the other end of the city. Damage has been estimated at $210,000.

The Masonic hall, owned by undertaker W. D. Banks, an active leader in the local NAACP chapter, was leveled Sunday night. Two policemen who discovered the blaze said they could smell kerosene and reported seeing a large can burning under the steps.

Banks is one of two NAACP leaders who met with the city's board of education earlier in an attempt to end the boycott threat. The board has revised its plan to integrate all grades of city schools. It decided to integrate only two grades this year, after it was learned more than three times the expected

Baltimore Sun Boosts Price; Costs Rising

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Sun announced Sunday night that the price of its street-editions, both morning and evening, would be raised from seven cents to a dime beginning Sept. 7.

The Sun said the price increase was due to rising costs of production and distribution. The newspaper said the price of the home-delivered editions would be unchanged.

Houston Probes Epidemic of Encephalitis

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Health officials hope by Wednesday or Thursday to be able to interpret trends and establish how long this city's sleeping sickness epidemic peak might last.

Twenty new suspected cases of encephalitis were reported Sunday, bringing to 413 the number so far. Nineteen persons may have died of the St. Louis encephalitis virus, but only three deaths have been definitely attributed to the disease through laboratory analysis.

Dr. C. A. Pigford, city health officer, said Sunday the epidemic was either nearing or at its peak.

Day and night insecticide spraying continued in efforts to kill the disease-carrying mosquitoes.

No One Injured In New York Racial Rioting

NEW YORK (AP) — Residents of a predominantly Puerto Rican block, apparently angered over a fatal shooting, threw gasoline bombs, rocks and bottles Sunday night. Their targets were Negroes and policemen and firemen fighting a tenement house blaze.

No one was reported injured by the fire bombs or the barrage from roofs and windows.

Several hundred persons were involved in the disorder on the lower East Side.

Police officials said today the outbreak developed from tension over the fatal shooting of a Puerto Rican by a Negro Saturday night and a series of Negro-Puerto Rican brawls Saturday night and early Sunday.

A Negro was arrested and charged with homicide early Sunday. More than two dozen Negroes and Puerto Ricans were arrested on disorderly conduct charges.

Sunday night, the tension heightened when police began evacuating Negro and Puerto Rican occupants of the building where the fire broke out.

Two patrolmen fired six shots into a building a few doors from the tenement fire when they saw three men on a fire escape toss three fire bombs at another building. The policemen went into the building and arrested two of the men, but the third escaped, police reported.

As the patrolmen were coming out of the building with their prisoners, they were met by a crowd and they retreated into the building until police reinforcements arrived.

T. A. Meservey, Noted Springs Merchant Dies

Thomas A. Meservey, retired partner of the Lowell - Meservey Hardware Co. and one of the best known businessmen of Colorado Springs, died Saturday, at 74, at a local hospital. He was born July 18, 1890, in Colorado Springs and had been a lifetime resident of this city. From his early manhood he had been a member of this well-known hardware firm. Over a long period of years his activities in the business had been attending to the store, while his partner, J. R. Lowell, looked mostly after building contracts and other outside features of the business. Mr. Meservey had been in ill health for some time. He was a member of the Episcopal Church, El Paso Lodge No. 13, AF and AM, and the American Legion. He served with the 89th Division in World War I. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Letty Meservey, Colorado Springs; a daughter, Mrs. Marlyn Loaring-Clark, (Turn to Page A4, Column 4)

New Power Switch Expected for Viets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Warning that further violence would be met with force, the government pressed a search today for Communists suspected of taking part in last week's Buddhist-Roman Catholic riots. The government said 449 persons, including some Communists, have been rounded up in search today for Communists. Many Communist special activities groups entered the capital and have infiltrated various groups and organizations in order to sabotage public order and security as well as cause religious friction," a government communique said.

An army announcement said troops would shoot at demonstrators who refuse to obey orders. For a time last week soldiers watched with folded arms while Catholic and Buddhist youths battled in the streets (Turn to Page A4, Column 9)

Top English Pedigreed Dogs Reported Invalids

By JOHN GALE
LONDON (AP) — Some of Britain's pedigreed dogs rate as partial invalids afflicted with major hereditary defects, a medical survey by leading veterinary surgeons disclosed today.

Findings of the most comprehensive medical checkup ever attempted by the nation's devoted dog breeders were contained in a 4,000-word report published by the Kennel Club.

Veterinarians found many dogs in nearly 20 leading pedigree strains are prone to such ailments as ingrowing eyelids (entropion), growing blindness (retinal atrophy), slipping kneecaps (patella luxation) soft palate and hip dysplasia (displacement).

A Kennel Club spokesman said the ailments would be described in ordinary language in 50,000 pamphlets to be distributed to dog breeders.

Britain has exported more than 5,000 pedigreed dogs annually for the last four years.

Many originate from small backyard businesses. Ingrowing eyelids, which can bring constant pain and blindness, was found commonly in chows, wire-haired fox terriers, Dalmatians, St. Bernards, Airedales and the bull breeds, including boxers.

Hip dysplasia was said to afflict many larger breeds, except greyhounds. Retinal atrophy was found in miniature and toy poodles, cocker spaniels, rough and border collies, Labrador retrievers and English springer spaniels.

Slipping kneecaps was prevalent among small breeds, including miniature poodles, small terriers and Pekingeses. The report said dogs with this condition often "move quite considerable distances on the forelegs with the hind legs in the air."

Soft palate is a product of selective breeding which has shortened the dog's skull without a corresponding shrinkage in the palate, the report said.

Derrera Sent To Penitentiary For Burglary

Delfred Joseph Derrera, 27, Denver, was sentenced to not less than three years and 10 months or more than eight years in the State Penitentiary by District Judge David W. Enoch this morning.

Derrera pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to the burglary of the Kiowa Superette Store in Kiowa July 1. The defendant requested a change of venue and was consequently sentenced out of El Paso District Court.

At the time of the burglary he was with a companion, Dennis Glidwell, 27, also Denver, who killed himself with a bullet in his head only a few seconds before the Kiowa sheriff was about to arrest the pair in the store.

Cyprus Gets Nasser Aid; Turks Stage Anti-U.S. Riots

By ALEX EFTY
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — President Makarios won a pledge of support today from the United Arab Republic in his dispute with Turkish Cypriots on troubled Cyprus as anti-American demonstrations continued in Turkey.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser also warned against outside interference in the island's affairs, said a joint communique issued in Alexandria at the conclusion of talks between Nasser and Makarios.

Nasser did not specifically pledge military support, however. Nasser's pledge to Makarios came on the heels of renewed demonstrations in Turkey's key cities.

The United Arab Republic thus followed the lead of Greece and the Soviet Union in promising help if Cyprus were invaded by Turkey.

"The U.A.R. is prepared to provide Cyprus with every possible support for the sake of strengthening the efforts of the Cypriot people in their struggle to safeguard the unity of their island," the communique said.

"The two sides agreed that foreign military bases are a threat to international peace," it added.

Nasser is known to be opposed to the presence of Western military bases in the eastern Mediterranean. Britain retains two military bases on Cyprus under the 1960 treaty of independence. A British base on Cyprus was used as a staging area for the British-French attack on Egypt during the 1956 Suez crisis.

Reliable sources said Makarios and Nasser also discussed a possible shipment of Soviet arms to Cyprus via Egypt.

The Greek Cypriot leader, who flew to Alexandria Saturday to confer with U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said Sunday that Nasser "reassured me of his support in several ways."

Insurance Man Throws Party; Cost $20,000

NEW HAVEN, Conn., (AP) — A local millionaire used to do this, but that was for a select group. I did it for the average working person.

That was one reason Edmund C. O'Connor gave for renting the West Haven Armory Saturday night and inviting 1,000 friends to a party. The bill, he said, might come to $20,000.

The 61-year-old bachelor said he planned the party to thank the people who sent him cards when an illness laid him up in the hospital.

He also was celebrating one of his most successful weeks in 41 years of selling insurance when he sold 70 persons life insurance policies recently, he said.

O'Connor treated his guests to lobster dinners and entertainment from New York.

"I told my friends that if they took any money from their wallets, they'd get arrested, and I didn't want that to happen," he said.

Doormen turned away at least 60 crashers but O'Connor let in 50 friends who had forgotten their engraved invitations. The guests drank about 20 cases of liquor.

"There were all nationalities present," said O'Connor. "I put the Irish on one side and the Italians on the other, and said that if a fight broke out, I'd have to fight with the Irish. But there wasn't any trouble."

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ K J 7 5 2 ♣ 2 ♢ 4 3 ♧ 8 6 5

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1 Pass 1 Pass 1
Pass 2 Pass 1 Pass 1

What do you bid now?

A.—A prompt withdrawal from the seat is recommended. Partner would expect more substantial values if you rebid spades and might be induced to take action attended with danger.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 9 6 3 2 ♣ 8 7 ♢ Q 8 6 2 ♧ J 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 1NT Pass Pass
Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. While it may be tempting to make an immediate jump raise in spades such temptation should be resisted. Repeated diamond leads might play havoc with a spade contract, whereas at hearts you could handle the force without great inconvenience.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ A K Q ♣ A K 9 5 3 ♢ 3 ♧ 7 6

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 Pass 1 Pass
1 Pass 1 Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. While it may be tempting to make an immediate jump raise in spades such temptation should be resisted. Repeated diamond leads might play havoc with a spade contract, whereas at hearts you could handle the force without great inconvenience.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ 6 ♣ A Q J 10 8 7 4 3 ♢ A Q J 9

Your partner opens with one spade. What is your response?

A.—Three diamonds. Unless an immediate jump shift is made, subsequent bidding problems are sure to arise. Partner needs very little to produce a slam, and the big signal should be flashed at once.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ 7 6 2 ♣ A K 8 ♢ A J 8 7 ♧ 7 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
2 2 Pass ?
3 3 Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. It is your duty at this stage to show a preference if you have one, which, holding three spades to an honor, you have. If you bid three no trump, any subsequent spade preference you give may induce partner to believe you have only two spades.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ A Q J 3 ♣ 8 7 6 5 3 ♢ Q ♧ A 4

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass 1 Pass 2 Pass 2
Pass 2 Pass 3 Pass 3

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. A rebid of three no trump should be avoided whenever possible on distinctly unfavorable holdings. The more danger that all four suits are adequately protected does not make a hand for no trump. Communication between the two hands may be too tenuous to make the contract playable. Only if partner chooses to bid three no trump himself would we find this contract acceptable.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ 2 ♣ A Q 7 ♢ K 10 8 7 5 3 2 ♧ J

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1NT 2 Pass ?
1NT 2 Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. Partner has not expressed a desire to have you participate. If that were in his mind he would have doubled the opening bid. Unless North is highly indiscreet he has a reliable spade suit and inasmuch as he has not been doubled there is no present danger. A bid of three diamonds appears to have no real future and might tend only to stir up the animals.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ J 6 2 ♣ 9 6 2 ♢ 9 8 7 2 ♧ 8 6 5

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. It is your duty at this stage to show a preference if you have one, which, holding three spades to an honor, you have. If you bid three no trump, any subsequent spade preference you give may induce partner to believe you have only two spades.

Suburbanites Are Going Back to City

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
CHICAGO (AP) — After 17 years and $210 million, urban renewal is paying its way in Chicago. As an added bonus, say city officials, it's bringing suburbanites back to the city at a better than expected pace.

By the late 1940s, Chicago's white citizens — like millions of others throughout the country — were streaming to the suburbs while slums spread in their wake. Assessed tax valuations of real estate and tax revenue were dropping.

The battle to reverse the tide began in 1947 with the Hyde Park-Kenwood conservation project, first of its kind in the United States. More than $36 million in city, state and federal funds was spent in the next 10 years to build new homes and apartment buildings, renovate old units and tear down dilapidated ones.

Now, 30 projects later, city officials estimate that the developments, which extend into almost every part of the city, eventually will increase the valuation of the involved real estate by more than $48 million.

D. E. MacKinnon, deputy commissioner of urban renewal, Sunday estimated the increase in tax yield at 115 per cent since the urban renewal programs were initiated. The city should be able to pay off the millions invested by 1975, he said.

Plus the public funds, an estimated half-billion dollars has been invested from private funds and by the University of Illinois, which hopes its $150-million Chicago campus will be ready for classroom use by next spring. The school will occupy an 165-acre site on the West Side that was cleared with urban renewal funds.

One recent urban renewal project considered a glowing success is Carl Sandburg Village, an ultra-modern housing development in Old Town, an area known for its quaint shops, houses and entertainment spots.

The village, eventually to be a 2,000-unit development with six 27-story towers, was constructed by a real estate firm, Arthur Rubloff & Co., after the land was designated a slum and cleared with urban renewal funds.

Rubloff & Co. bought the 16 acres of land in 1961 for a record $9.17 per square foot. Stanley Goodfriend, a Rubloff vice president, said 12 per cent of the tenants moved back from the suburbs to take advantage of "in-town living" atmosphere of the village, with its landscaped plazas and long malls.

"We didn't realize the attraction was going to be as big as it turned out to be," he said. "There's a tremendous market if you can build the right thing."

Lewis Hill, assistant urban renewal commissioner, agrees. "It's working out better than expected," he said.

"The village has given impetus to the whole near North Side, in terms of reconstruction and remodeling," Hill added. "New high rise buildings are going up east of it and prices, taxes and land values are all up."

The village, named for poet Carl Sandburg, is one of three major building developments where land was cleared by city agencies and developed by private industry.

The others, Prairie Shores and Lake Meadows, both on the South Side, report up to 10 per cent of their 3,800 living units are occupied by former suburban dwellers.

Rents in the developments are high, ranging from $85 to $135 a month for a studio apartment to $210 to $435 for a three- or four-bedroom unit.

Because of their inaccessibility to the average wage earner, the integrated urban renewal projects have been bitterly attacked by civil rights leaders.

"Slum clearance in Chicago, just as it is in many other towns, really means Negro clearance," says A. J. Pragean, an official of the Chicago Urban League.

Before the village was constructed, Pragean said, "there were a lot of poor people in that whole area. They got taken out and relocated in substandard housing or public housing."

"Why not rebuild a community for the people who really need it — the people who live there?" he asked.

Bake a white cake in a round layer-cake pan and cool. Scoop out the center of the cake and fill with fruit and whipped cream; garnish prettily. Use the cake crumbs leftover in a custardy bread pudding.

Dear Heloise:

Here's a hint for using a portable sewing machine.

Lower your adjustable ironing board so that it will be the correct height when you are sitting on a chair, and place your sewing machine on the "wide" end of the board.

This leaves you with space at the other end of the ironing board for all sorts of things. You can press all your seams on the smaller end of the board without even getting off "that" chair! —Kathryn M.

Oh, Mrs. Shields, this is about the trickiest idea ever. It also works on chili sauce bottles. It is absolutely amazing that this little cardboard roll holds the necks of the two bottles in place perfectly.

Also, every iota of sauce came out, leaving the top bottle slick and clean as a whistle. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I open canned fruit (peaches, apricots, pineapple or pears) I pour the heavy syrup into empty, clean cartons and put the cartons in my freezer.

Dear Heloise:

With regard to the lady who wrote about turning an almost empty bottle of catsup upside down on top of another bottle to salvage the last bit of catsup... I have gone one step further.

I used to balance one bottle on top of the other but now I save a cardboard roll from toilet tissue and place it over the neck of the bottle which I want the catsup to go into, and insert the top of the almost-empty bottle in the upper end of the roll.

This keeps the necks of both bottles exactly in line and no spills or drips. —Mrs. James Shields

Oh, Mrs. Shields, this is about the trickiest idea ever. It also works on chili sauce bottles. It is absolutely amazing that this little cardboard roll holds the necks of the two bottles in place perfectly.

Also, every iota of sauce came out, leaving the top bottle slick and clean as a whistle. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have found that if you have to shorten or lengthen a dress or skirt which you have purchased, and you don't have the color thread you need, you can take the hem out gently, then run a damp cloth along the thread which you have removed from the hem.

The thread will straighten out and you can use it to do your hemming, and even have a little thread left over to sew on any loose buttons. —M. T. B.

ANTIQUE ACCENTS
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Antique coffee mills and even old iron sink pumps were never so much in demand as they are today, says Mrs. Lawrence L. Hills, show chairman of the Greater Kansas City Antique Dealers Association.

The growing popularity of Early American family rooms and kitchens is responsible for the increased use of antique accessories, she said.

Trustees Delay Professor Hearing

GREELEY (AP)—The Board of Trustees of State Colleges will decide on Sept. 9 whether to intervene in the demotion of an English Department head at Southern Colorado State College.

Dr. Harold Karr had appealed to the board his removal as department head from the institution at Pueblo.

The board met in executive session here last week with Dr. Karr, his attorney and officials of Southern Colorado State.

Afterward it issued a statement that Dr. Karr would have until Sept. 9 to file formal charges and for the college to answer those charges. At that time, the board said it would decide whether or not a hearing would be held.

State Sen. Dale Tursi of Pueblo, attorney for Karr, told the trustees they should look into charges made against Karr in a letter by Dr. Marvin Knudsen, the college president.

The board announced its unanimous approval of a proposed four-year Metropolitan State College for Denver.

Bernard Houtchens, board chairman, said a study under way since last year convinced the trustees that such a new institution "would meet an educational need" in the Denver area.

Vocational training would be stressed at first with a liberal arts program to be developed later.

A legislative appropriation to develop the college will be sought by the board, Houtchens said. The legislature asked the board to make the study of feasibility as well as the location of classroom facilities and creation of a curriculum.

Miller Says Only GOP Can Solve Viet Nam War

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Rep. William E. Miller, Republican vice-presidential candidate, says that unless a Republican is elected to the White House in November "we will never solve the war in South Viet Nam."

Speaking at a GOP picnic in Albion Sunday, Miller said: "Four years ago there were no Communists in Cuba. There was no wall in Berlin. There was no Communist government in Laos."

His weekend campaigning centered around attacks on the Johnson administration's handling of international communism.

At an informal address Saturday to a convention of Syrian Lebanon clubs in Buffalo, he said the "real problem in the world today is whether mankind is going to be free or slave."

"When we see communism enslaving more people, and since World War II more than one billion people have fallen under communism, we may well wonder whether in fact we are winning the war for freedom."

A small group of demonstrators, who said they were members of a group called Youth Against War and Fascism, picketed outside the hotel where Miller was speaking. They said they opposed Miller and the Republican presidential candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Miller scrapped a speech prepared for the Buffalo appearance in which he charged President Johnson with sidestepping "the issues which would tend to irritate the Soviet Union."

He said Johnson showed an apparent reluctance earlier this month "to face the issues of freedom, when asked about tearing down the Berlin wall."

He quoted Johnson as saying, "We are constantly concerned with improving the conditions of the free world. We are very proud of our relationship with" the Federal Republic of Germany. We are going to continue in cooperation with them to do everything possible to bring about the unification of the great people of Germany at the earliest possible date.

Commenting on the GOP's chances, Miller said, "The election is not going to be decided by pollsters and columnists—it will be decided by the people of the United States."

Commie China To Boycott Red World Confab

Peking was one of 25 Communist parties invited to lay the groundwork for a meeting of 81 Communist parties next summer.

Red China also accused the United States of opening up a new "special warfare" theater in Africa. China has made Africa one of its major spheres of activity.

South Viet Nam is the "biggest testing ground of U.S. special warfare," the broadcast said, but added that American campaigns also were under way in Venezuela and Colombia.

"Thus, with the Johnson administration now beginning to intervene by armed force in the heart of Africa, the flames of special warfare are burning in all three continents of Asia, Africa and Latin America," the Peking agency said.

"Special warfare can not save the staggering colonial empire of U.S. imperialism," the broadcast said.

The broadcast said Peking told Moscow:

"You have the effrontery to declare in your letter that, whether or not the fraternal parties participate, the drafting committee you have designated shall open shop as scheduled and the international meeting unilaterally called by you shall begin on the date prescribed."

"We will never take part in any international meeting or any preparatory meeting for it, which you call for the purpose of splitting the international Communist movement."

"Today the most urgent common task before the communists and revolutionary people of the world is to oppose U.S. imperialism and its lackeys. But you are bent on colluding with the U.S. imperialists and on seeking common ground uniting you with them."

The Kremlin has summoned Communist delegates to the December meeting to prepare for a party summit session on the Soviet-Chinese ideological feud. The differences involve Moscow's policy of peaceful coexistence with the West and Peking's demands for action, even at the risk of war, to spread communism.

Peking's rejection letter said, "We have already warned you the day you call a schismatic meeting will be the day you have taken another long step toward this grave of your own digging."

Tshombe's Army Recaptures Red Defended City

control of rebel leader Gaston Soumialot in June.

Soumialot proclaimed a "Popular Congolese Republic" with himself as president and Albertville as capital. He took over the city after Baluba warriors rose up against provincial President Jason Sendwe, hacking him and several aides to death.

Soumialot, however, abandoned the city after the fall of the northern center of Stanleyville to other rebel forces. All semblance of order broke down after his departure and drunken young warriors went on a rampage of killing and looting.

For more than a month loyal troops have put pressure on the rebels in Albertville. Less than a week ago Tshombe announced that his forces had retaken the city, but the claim turned out to be premature.

Tshombe's latest announcement followed an army report that a strong rebel force was marching on Bukavu, on the eastern Congo border 225 miles north of Albertville.

The disclosure by the army command in Bukavu confirmed unofficial reports that rebel troops had moved northward from Bukumbura, capital of neighboring Burundi, and the rebel-held town of Uvira, 75 miles south of Bukavu.

Unofficial reports said the rebels had gone through Burundi territory to the Sage bridge, about 50 miles south of Bukavu, and crossed into the Congo. The rebels, believed to be under the command of former provincial Minister Castmar Bagira, presumably traveled in a neighboring state to elude detection by Congolese air force planes.

Bukavu, about 1,000 miles northeast of Leopoldville, lies on Lake Kivu and is the chief trading and administrative center for Kivu Province. It has a population of 80,000, including 500 whites.

Cyprus Gets Nasser Aid; Turks Stage Anti-U.S. Riots

dria Makarios, archbishop of Cyprus, reaffirmed "our determination to carry on our struggle to the end. We won't surrender."

"We believe that with people who have the strength to fight, we will win in the end and live free and united with Greece."

In other developments Sunday, angry Turks staged anti-Greek and anti-U.S. demonstrations for the fourth successive day while the United Nations command in Nicosia charged that Turkish and Greek flights over Cyprus had heightened tension.

Some 2,000 to 3,000 Turks marched toward Greek and U.S. embassies in Anara. The Turkish capital, but police stopped them with barricades. In the Aegean port of Izmir, firemen used high-pressure hoses to drive back about 150 persons attempting to demonstrate at the International Trade Fair.

The demonstrations followed an appeal by Premier Ismet Inonu for an end to the rioting. As troops in battle gear patrolled Turkey's largest cities, Interior Minister Orhan Oztrak warned that the government was ready to use force to restore order. Inonu said that while Turks had a legal right to free assembly, there would be no security if unlawful demonstrators tried to set national policy.

The demonstrators accused the United States, Britain, Greece, the United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union of seeking a Cyprus settlement unfavorable to Turkey.

The Soviet Union protested to Turkey about an attack on its pavilion at the Izmir fair Saturday. A half dozen pavilions were wrecked and looted, including a U.S. building.

In northwest Cyprus a Greek air force transport plane circled over a recent battle area for more than an hour. Two Turkish air force jets made a reconnaissance pass over the island.

The U.N. command said both flights were violations of Security Council resolutions calling for a lessening of tension.

Turkey began an investigation into the sinking of a Turkish PT-boat off the northwest coast of Cyprus Saturday.

Weekend of Racial Riots Marks Philadelphia Area

Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said that because of the similarity of the riots, the suspicion is widespread that "they have been planned and that persons had been paid to start and to keep them going."

Troubles in New York State, Chicago and Philadelphia, Wilkins said, "all started with a police dispute and proceeded to the wholesale looting of stores."

The outbreak in Philadelphia began Friday night when a police patrol car, carrying a white and a Negro policeman, responded to a routine call of a stalled car in the predominantly Negro section of North Philadelphia, where about one-third of the city's 600,000 Negroes reside.

Police found a Negro woman and her husband arguing there and attempted to take the woman out of the car. It was then, they said, that a crowd gathered, bottles, rocks and bricks were thrown at police and the widespread looting and pillaging began.

Efforts by local Negro civil rights leaders to stop the rioting by direct appeals to the people in the area proved unsuccessful. The rioting continued Saturday and Sunday, though with less violence and less frequency. The police radio repeatedly reported bands of roving youths breaking windows and looting state liquor stores and taverns.

Police said 28 persons were arrested Sunday night. A special riot court at City Hall worked into the night to dispose of cases ranging from burglary to aggravated assault and battery by shooting.

The slain Air Force captain was identified as Richard Dean Goss, of Seattle, Wash. The spokesman said Goss was killed along with a Vietnamese student pilot Saturday while practicing night landings at the American Bien Hoa base, 15 miles north of here. U.S. jet bombers are stationed at the bases.

He said their A-1 E-G fighter-bomber was fired on from the ground immediately before it crashed 200 yards from the end of the runway.

The spokesman said Goss was killed along with a Vietnamese student pilot Saturday while practicing night landings at the American Bien Hoa base, 15 miles north of here. U.S. jet bombers are stationed at the bases.

He said their A-1 E-G fighter-bomber was fired on from the ground immediately before it crashed 200 yards from the end of the runway.

Mother Sets Fire To Herself and Four Children

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The only survivor of a tragedy in which a mother apparently set fire to her four children and herself is in critical condition today at an Atlanta hospital.

Police reported that while her husband was delivering his paper early Sunday morning, Kathleen Martin, 26, apparently poured gasoline over her four children and herself, then set them afire.

A neighbor overheard one of the children say: "Mother told us she had to do it."

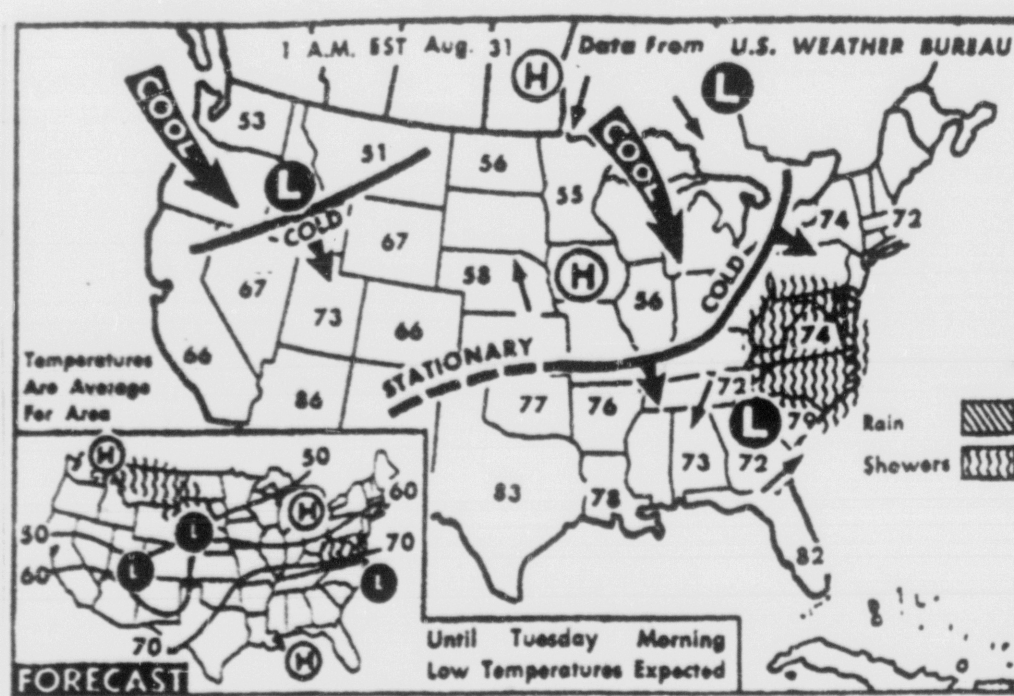

Dead are Mrs. Martin of suburban Chamblee and Sarah Jean, 6; Barbara Susan, 3; and Pamela Ann, 9 months. The fourth child, Steven, 8, is the only survivor.

Police reported a neighbor said that Mrs. Martin had filed divorce proceedings against her husband, James Martin, but later dropped the suit. The Martins were living together at the time of the incident.

Capt. C. M. Buren said Mrs. Martin began pouring the gasoline over the children and herself about half an hour after her husband left home to deliver newspapers.

A neighbor said she was coming home shortly after midnight when she heard the Martin children screaming. She awoke her parents and they saw Steven running screaming across the lawn, his pajamas in flames.

Neighbors aided police and firemen at the Martin home. Two men succeeded in entering the home and getting Mrs. Martin out. She died in front of the house while firemen administered oxygen.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Showers and thundershowers will prevail over the mid-Atlantic states Monday evening and in a belt from the Pacific Northwest extending into the northern Rockies and over the upper and central plains. Milder temperatures are expected over the Mississippi valley and southern Gulf coast area while cooler readings will be the rule for the northern Rockies, great basin and northeastern corner of the nation. Airplane Crash Kills Four Men at Aspen another CSC teacher, John Courtney, 28, and two priests, The Rev. Edward Ryan, 39, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Parish in Greeley, and The Rev. Andrew O'Reilly, 40, assistant pastor of St. Therese's Church in Aurora.

Don Peck of the Civil Air Patrol said the wreckage had been spotted after a tip from an Aspen rancher, E. R. Gerbacz. The rancher said he had heard a loud noise Friday afternoon, and had seen smoke from high up on Poppley Peak.

Gerbacz didn't report this immediately, Peck said, because there are crews working on a dam in the general area and he thought the noise and smoke came from one of the work projects.

O'Reilly received national recognition in 1961 when Newsweek magazine hailed him for his work as chaplain at the New York University chapter of the Newman Club, a Catholic organization. The article said he was possibly the busiest chaplain in the United States, tending to the spiritual needs of NYU's 10,000 Catholic students.

Courtney, who had been at CSC since 1960, was a Denver native. Walsh was from Farmington, Minn., had received a bachelor's degree from the University of Minnesota, a master's from Oregon, and a doctorate at Stanford. He joined CSC in 1957.

The four had been at an educational conference at Aspen Thursday and were returning to Greeley.

Film Stars Try to Save Homes From State Project

By HOWARD C. HEYN

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A little band of Hollywood professionals who have spent years making movies for millions are completing a picture for an audience of only five persons.

They consider it one of the most important films of their careers. It won't make a dime but it might save their homes.

The picture, "Save Our Stream," shows grassy banks, tiny waterfalls, lush trees and primitive bridges leading to $50,000 and $60,000 homes designed expressly for this woody retreat.

Its message: Don't let civilization encroach on our surroundings. The firm's non-paying audience will consist of Los Angeles County's governing body, the five-member Board of Supervisors. They'll see the film when a hearing is set on a flood control project.

Actors James Whitmore, John Payne, Paul Fix, Lee Marvin, Mike Kellin, Tom Middleton and Lloyd Bochner; actors writer-actor Piper Laurie, Billy Idolson, directors Jerry Parris and Fielder Cook, music director Alfred Newman, band leader Harry Owens and glamor photographer Peter Gowland — these are a few of the celebrities who inhabit Rustic Canyon, a bit wilderness surrounded by city.

They and 280 other families believe they are the victims in a real-life melodrama. The villains — in their eyes — are truck-riding, bulldozing engineers bent upon knocking down trees, grading a 12-foot access road and packing a little meandering stream into a concrete coffin.

The film's chief sound is the voice of Whitmore, appealing for the preservation of natural beauty.

number of Negroes had registered to attend white schools.

After Dubois school was burned, the school board met in an emergency 90-minute closed session later, Supt. Jack Miller issued a brief announcement that the board had decided to suspend the school system's operations until Sept. 8.

Louisville attorney James Crumlin, hired by the parents of 125 Negro children, said a suit to force integration of all grades would be filed early this week unless an agreement could be reached.

Mount Sterling — between the bluegrass country and the Cumberland Mountains — had lagged behind the remainder of Kentucky in school integration. The State Department of Education said earlier this month that 99.4 per cent of the state's school districts with Negro and white children have been integrated.

who produced it and wrote the script; Parris, who directed, and Gowland, who interrupted his pin-up portrait to serve as cameraman.

"Save Our Stream," 10 minutes long, cost $350, mostly for film. At professional rates it would have cost $30,000, Gomberg said.

Flood control experts say enclosure of the creek is needed because of expanded residential building in upper reaches of the canyon. This, they say, will increase runoff and could cause a flood problem. Rustic Canyon residents say they have never seen the water course carry more than a fraction of its capacity.

The county envisions a cement channel 24 feet wide and 10 ft deep with a steel fence and access road. These structures would require removal of most of the trees bordering the stream's banks.

"We recognize the need for protection against flood in danger areas of the country," Whitmore said. "But we refuse to believe that progress must be equated with ugliness."

No financing has been provided for the project yet, but it is on the books and some protective structure is almost inevitable, both sides agree.

Residents say that if the brook is boxed up they will do what thousands of others have done under the creeping pressure of a great metropolitan complex. They'll get out.

The fireplaces, fixtures, paintings, sculptures and the gold doorknobs will be sold at auction sometime this fall, Metzger said.

"We will remove the doors, the piping, the panels — everything that is salable — and sell it," Metzger said. "What's left we'll haul off to the dump."

"The temper of the people is to tear down everything and make a parking lot or a subdivision out of it."

Metzger said that the land is worth more without the building than with it.

LBJ Embarks On Campaign By Telephone

By FRANK CORMIER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, even while relaxing at his LBJ Ranch, embarks today — by telephone — on his campaign for a full four years in the White House.

Johnson agreed to address the 100th anniversary convention of the International Plasterers and Masons Union at Philadelphia by long distance.

Once that was accomplished, Johnson set this as the day to sign a bill extending the food stamp plan designed to bring nourishment to needy families.

This was one of his "must" bills in Congress and was passed just before the Democratic National Convention which nominated him by acclamation as the party standard bearer.

The President hopes to address quite a number of conventions, meetings and convocations of union, farmer and business groups between now and the Nov. 3 election.

In private conversation, Johnson often stresses such engagements before mentioning his planned appearances before larger, but more composite, masses of the voting public.

This doubtless reflects the President's ardent wish to woo all special interest groups and, hopefully, to emerge as a political figure who will be able to claim support from all segments of the voting public.

It is known that Johnson hopes he will be able to spend at least half his time during the campaign season in the White House. Any president likes the image of a chief executive hard at work on the nation's major problems.

At the same time, he also wants to get out among the people several days a week.

In accomplishing this, Johnson will be likely to combine speaking appearances before special interest groups with public motorcades to and from neighboring airports.

This was the pattern he frequently followed during his pre-convention travels last spring, travels that White House aides regarded as a dress rehearsal for the presidential campaign.

Johnson is spending a long weekend at his 400-acre farm and is expected to remain in the central Texas hill country for another day or two, at least.

The day's schedule, however, suggested a gradual transition to something more arduous than the relaxed weekend schedule of walks, boating expeditions and talks with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, his vice-presidential running mate.

Humphrey, his wife, Muriel, and son, Douglas, 16, flew back to Washington Sunday in time for today's reopening of Congress.

While the Humphreys were here, everything was folksy or "country," as they say in these parts. A great unwinding from convention days was the major objective.

In this vein, Johnson and his wife took the Humphreys on yet another ranch tour Sunday accompanied by newsmen and photographers.

Everything didn't go according to plan, however. One misstep in the cow pasture and Humphrey was exclaiming: "I've just stepped on the republican platform."

South Unlikely To Be Solidly Anti-Johnson

"The best offers on the land that we have been getting," he said, "are in excess of what we could get with the building on it — it would actually pay us to remove the building."

Those Democrats who run campaigns are not kidding themselves about the difficulties they face in what is becoming a two-party South in national elections.

They already have scratched Alabama and Mississippi from their list of states whose electoral votes they expect in President Johnson's column.

But while they fear the November election news might be bad in Louisiana, South Carolina, Florida, Virginia and Texas, they think they have a fighting chance to keep these states in line.

No small part of this is due to the detailed preparations made by Johnson to smother the civil rights controversy that might have flared into an open revolt and a Dixie walkout at this week's Democratic National Convention.

Both Johnson and GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater have expressed hope that civil rights will not be an issue in the campaign.

But they both recognize it is there—either in open opposition to integration or in covert backlash against it—and is likely to remain there.

Johnson took extraordinary measures during the Atlantic City convention to placate all of the party conservatives, including the Southern die-hard segregationists. Those among the latter who came to the convention to get thrown out, and thus publicize their beliefs, found themselves thwarted at every turn.

Johnson took the extraordinary course of directing the National Committee to suspend for 30 days its requirement that members sign a loyalty oath to support the national nominees.

This left Eugene (Bull) Connor, the national committee man from Alabama, no chance to make an issue of it in the final meeting connected with the convention. Connor, who had walked out when he was denied a convention seat, said he was going home to think it over.

Any announcement from Alabama that he was bolting would lack the national attention Connor might have received had he been able to raise a ruckus with the President on hand.

Johnson told his convention agents he wanted a moderate, middle-of-the-road program that offered something to everyone and made no one mad enough to stand up on his hind legs and shout about it.

That was exactly what he got. The civil rights plank was a mild one, which differed only in wording from the one Republicans had adopted in San Francisco after a great deal of uproar and internal party bleeding.

When Johnson was majority leader of the senate, he used to get things done by what is called "unanimous consent." If no member shouted an objection, a bill was passed.

The Atlantic City convention was strictly one of "presidential consent." Committees drafted platforms, seated delegates and went about other business only when they had White House clearance.

The message, of course, was that Lyndon Johnson is a man with compassion for the voters everywhere, the incipiently rebellious South included.

HENS LIKE IT SOOTHING
MOUNT ALBERT, Ont. (AP) — The leghorns are longhaired at Feathercrest Farm.

When the big automated egg farm 25 miles north of Toronto opened two years ago, the owners provided their 60,000 laying hens with the best of everything, including piped-in music. But the music was largely rock 'n' roll and the hens just didn't dig it, says Len Rosenberg, one of the owners.

"Our quality dropped and so did egg production. We didn't fight. We switched to FM."

The classics and other soothing music apparently appealed to the hens because 70 per cent of them now leave an egg a day in appreciation.

But that's not all for the hens have to be thankful for. The five buildings in which they are kept — two birds to a cage — are air-conditioned, specially lighted and antiseptic.

Each hen has its own eight inches of feed and water trough.

Meat Racketeers In Warsaw Go On Trial Soon

By GENE KRAMER
WARSAW, Poland (AP) — One day last winter a Warsaw woman went to a meat market but found it had no beef for sale. This happens every day to hundreds of customers resigned to shortages — but this woman happened to work for the Central Meat Distribution Office. She knew the market had received a beef delivery that day.

She stormed back to her office and told her boss. He summoned the delivery man who admitted that the beef had been hijacked.

One of Communist Poland's most notorious scandals, the Warsaw meat affair, began to unfold.

The complete story may never be made public but enough has come out to stain the reputation of the Communist organization running the capital city.

Dr. Walenty Titkow recently was demoted from the powerful post of party secretary for Warsaw to the office of vice minister of health. His deputy, Stefan Harasimowski, was also removed.

The impression was created that although Titkow and Harasimowski did not profit personally from the meat scandal they had to pay the price of letting corruption gain a foothold.

Trials are expected to start in September.

Meat is nearly always in short supply in Poland, and home-makers wait hours in lines to get it.

The Communist weekly Polityka says only two per cent of meat trade personnel were involved in the racket but admits that they ranged from top to bottom. Unofficial sources estimate that up to $12 million worth of meat has been stolen and 700 people have been questioned, ranging from Tadeusz Skowronski, head of the food-stuffs trade for Warsaw, down to butchers, clerks and warehouse guards.

Questions and Answers Regarding Provisions of New Dual Pay Act

The Civil Service Commission has prepared the following answers to questions received about the principal provisions of the new Dual Compensation Act, which was enacted Aug. 19, 1964.

1. Q. In general, what would the Dual Compensation Act do?

A. It would codify all the various laws pertaining to dual compensation and dual employment into one statute. It would establish simplified policies on civilian employment of retired military personnel and on the holding of two or more civilian positions.

2. Q. What limitation would be placed on dual compensation under the new law?

A. The limitation provides that a retired regular officer of the uniformed services who holds a Federal or D. C. Government civilian position will receive the full salary of the civilian position plus the first $2,000 of his military retired pay, plus one-half of any remainder of his retired pay.

3. Q. Will the retired pay of reserve officers and enlisted men be reduced under the new law?

A. No. Retired reserve officers and all retired enlisted men will continue to be exempt from any dual compensation limitation.

4. Q. Are any retired regular officers exempt from the dual compensation limitation?

A. Yes. Any regular officer is exempt whose retirement was based on disability resulting from injury or disease received in line of duty as a direct result of armed conflict or disability caused by an instrumentality of war and incurred in the line of duty during a period of war.

5. Q. What about retired regular officers who are holding Federal or D. C. Government civilian positions on November 30, 1964, the day immediately preceding the effective date of the Dual Compensation Act?

A. They may elect to come under the limitations of the Dual Compensation Act or continue under whatever limitations, if any, that are applicable to them on the day immediately preceding the effective date of the Dual Compensation Act.

6. Q. Does the dual compensation limitation apply to a retired regular officer who accepts a temporary, part-time, or intermittent appointment?

A. The limitation does not apply for the first 30 days of such an appointment.

7. Q. Does the Dual Compensation Act place any restriction on the appointment of retired members of the uniformed services?

A. Yes. A retired member of any of the armed forces may be appointed to a civilian position in or under the Department of Defense during the 180 days immediately following the date of his military retirement only if:

(1) The Secretary of the military department concerned authorizes his appointment and, if the position is in the competitive civil service, the Civil Service Commission approves; or

(2) The minimum rates of basic compensation for the position have been increased under section 504 of the Federal Salary Reform Act of 1962; or

(3) A state of national emergency exists.

8. Q. What information is required in connection with the authorization?

A. Any request for such an authorization and approval must be accompanied by a statement which shows that:

(a) Full consideration, in accordance with placement and promotion procedures of the military department concerned, was given to eligible career employees.

(2) If selection is by other than certification from a civil service list of eligibles, the vacancy has been publicized to give all interested candidates a chance to apply.

(3) Qualification requirements for the job have not been written in such a way that the retired member will be given an advantage.

(4) The job has not been held open pending the member's retirement.

9. Q. Does the Dual Compensation Act affect the reduction-in-force rights of retired military personnel?

A. Yes. A retired member of any of the uniformed services who is entitled to veteran preference under section 2 of the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944 will be placed in the veteran preference subgroup of his tenure group for reduction-in-force purposes only if:

(1) His retirement was based on disability resulting from injury or disease received in line of duty as a direct result of armed conflict or disability caused by an instrumentality of war and incurred in the line of duty during a period of war.

(2) His service does not include 20 or more years of active military service.

Russia Admits Failure in U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet press conceded here that the Communist party in the United States has failed to make any dents in the American two-party system.

The Soviet magazine International Affairs made the admission in trying to explain the U. S. presidential election to the Russian people.

"The Communist party, established in 1919, is yet to become a mass party," the magazine said. "The repeated attempts to build up a mass party . . . of toiling farmers or a mass worker-farmer party have so far failed."

"As a rule, the workers and the farmers — white and black — still vote either for Republican or Democratic candidates." International Affairs blamed the situation on the rise of the bourgeoisie (middle class) during "the high rate of U. S. capitalist economic development" in the 19th century.

"The very favorable conditions which prevailed in the 19th century substantially strengthened the bourgeoisie's social position and its political and ideological influence on the people," the magazine said.

"The huge profits made by the financial oligarchy in the first and second world wars, of which the exploited got a little bit too, enabled the ruling class to retain its influence."

LONDON — British coal miners are asking for better terms.

(3) He was employed in a Federal or D. C. Government civilian position on November 30, 1964.

10. Q. In computing the length of total service for reduction-in-force purposes of employees who are retired members of the uniformed services, is time spent in active service in the armed forces included?

A. If an employee is in one of the categories noted in question 9 above, his total length of time in active service in the armed forces is included. If he is not in one of these categories, only his length of time in active service during any war, or in any campaign or expedition for which a campaign badge has been authorized, is included.

11. Q. Does the Dual Compensation Act affect the crediting of the active military service of a retired member of the uniformed services for purposes of annual leave accrual?

A. Yes. Active military service of a retired member of any of the uniformed services is creditable in determining years of service for annual leave purposes only if:

(a) His retirement was based on disability resulting from injury or disease received in line of duty as a direct result of armed conflict or disability caused by an instrumentality of war and incurred in the line of duty during a period of war; or

(2) On Nov. 30, 1964, he was employed in a civilian position to which the Annual and Sick Leave Act applies; or

(3) Such service was performed in the armed forces during any war, or in any campaign or expedition for which a campaign badge has been authorized.

12. Q. How does the Dual Compensation Act affect those retired temporary commissioned officers and temporary warrant officers recently ruled by the Comptroller General to be employed or receiving retired pay in violation of the dual compensation laws?

A. They will be relieved of repaying to the Government the amounts considered overpayments under the Comptroller General's decision.

13. Q. What is the new limitation with respect to holding more than one civilian position?

A. Generally, a person holding more than one civilian position will be entitled to receive basic compensation for not more than 40 hours of work in any one calendar week (Sunday through Saturday).

14. Q. What is the effective date of the Dual Compensation Act?

A. The relief provisions (question 12) are effective upon enactment. All other provisions are effective on Dec. 1, 1964.

15. Q. What past laws does the Dual Compensation Act supersede?

A. Over 90 different laws are repealed or amended. Three of these which are basic and have had Government-wide application are:

A. The 1894 Dual Office Holding Act, which prohibited the Federal civilian employment of many highly qualified retired regular officers.

B. The 1916 Dual Compensation Act, which prohibited the receipt of compensation from more than one civilian office when the combined amount exceeded $2,000 per annum.

C. The 1932 Dual Compensation Act, which provided a $10,000 ceiling on combined retired pay and civilian salary.

Democratic Leaders Are Wary of Predictions

By LARRY OSIUS

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democratic leaders left this convention city expressing optimism — and some caution — about the party's chances in the November election.

Some admit to worry over the possibility of a white "backlash" against Negro demonstrators and the Civil Rights Act.

That is particularly true among leaders from Southern states. Several from that area could see the Johnson-Humphrey ticket's prospects as no better than even, if that much.

And some of the Southerners expect local and state candidates to run separately from the national ticket.

Of the leaders of 37 states contacted by The Associated Press during the convention, 18 placed their states solidly in the Johnson-Humphrey corner in November. They are Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, West Virginia, Wisconsin.

Democratic leaders in 17 other states — including some usually Republican ones — figure they have a good chance to win or at least their best in several years.

These are Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wyoming.

The states in which the Democratic chances were rated at no better than even — or were not rated — are Nebraska, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia.

Asked what might cause them the most trouble in the election, leaders from 12 states, including some in the North, specified civil rights and a white backlash. Some said they believe this will be less important as an issue by election day.

The normally conservative or Republican voting records of New Hampshire, Vermont, Kansas, Oklahoma and Wyoming are the biggest obstacles seen by party leaders in those states.

California's Jesse Unruh, speaker of the State Assembly, cited another hurdle — organization. He noted: "The Democratic organization is a series of duchies and baronies and California. It takes a series of alliances to get the party moving in the same direction."

Typical of those forecasting a big victory for President Johnson was Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware.

"Johnson will carry Delaware bigger than has any other Democratic nominee," he said.

"If the candidate were anyone but Johnson, he might lose Oklahoma," said a former governor, Raymond Gray. "But the people will vote for Johnson because he is a neighbor — a Texan."

Even Arizona Democrats are talking victory. Sam Goddard, former state chairman, now running for governor, said a poll ordered by the Democrats showed Johnson leading 6 to 4 in the home state of Barry Goldwater, GOP presidential nominee.

But the optimism is tempered with caution.

Frank Keller, Washington state chairman, says it is "a hard fight and getting harder every day."

Gov. Donald Russell of South Carolina says, "the situation will be close" with Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee, now benefiting from anti-civil rights feeling.

Gov. Albertis Harrison of Virginia wouldn't make an assessment. Previously he had said Goldwater was running strong.

On the other hand, Warren Goodrich, Florida state chairman, said he believes Florida will return to the Democratic fold for the first time since 1948.

Leaders indicated that state and congressional candidates in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia would run separate campaigns, although not necessarily disavowing or refusing to support the national party ticket.

But the Johnson-Humphrey ticket will look good to other candidates, said most of those who responded.

Louis Hanson, Wisconsin state chairman, put it this way: "Johnson's coat-tails will be very attractive to Democratic candidates down to the court-house level."

Evidence of Vikings Found in New World

WASHINGTON (AP) — Archaeologists have turned up what they consider evidence that the Vikings beat Christopher Columbus to the new world by about 500 years.

A tiny stone wheel, found in a Newfoundland wilderness, was hailed as a clue to a Viking settlement in North America nearly 1,000 years ago. The wheel was identified as part of a wool-spinning device and the first Viking household article found on the continent.

Dr. Melville Bell Grosvenor, president and editor of the National Geographic Society, said the discovery suggests that the Vikings brought their wives to do household work in an unsuccessful attempt to establish a permanent settlement.

Dropouts Return To Denver Schools

DENVER (AP) — Public school counselors persuaded 385 dropouts to return to school last fall. A study today showed that 161 of those completed the school year.

Actually, there were 2,848 boys and girls who didn't plan to return to school. Most of those, however, had left the Denver area, were ill or committed to institutions.

School officials said they were pleased that about 40 per cent of those young people who finally were contacted did return to school and finished.

None Injured as Airliner Overshoots

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A chartered Bulgarian airliner overshot the runway at Schwechat Airport here Saturday but none of the 85 persons aboard was injured. The plane smashed through a fence and came to rest in a field 600 yards from the end of the runway and suffered some damage. Most of those aboard, airport officials said, were Austrian vacationers.

'Suicide Pilots' Seen For Model Airplanes

LONDON (AP) — Radio-controlled model airplanes flown by hobbyists west of London are suddenly behaving as though suicide pilots had taken over.

Outraged model builders blame Japanese-made walkie-talkies that have just come on the market. They operate on a fixed frequency, the same one allotted by the British post office to the remote-controlled planes.

Army Urges Youth To 'Hit the Books'

FORT MONROE, Va. (UPI)—Army recruiters, who for the past 189 years have been urging young people to join up, are going all-out this academic year telling them to get an education first.

Not only that, but the Army is conducting a full-scale educational program designed to inspire young people with the notion that studying makes sense and can put added meaning into a person's life.

In sharp contrast to previous recruiting appeals, the Army will introduce in September a series of weekly educational programs depicting great moments in the history of the Western World.

According to the U.S. Army Recruiting Service, headquarters, U.S. Continental Army Command, the new series will consist of 40 weekly one-minute spot announcements depicting great moments in exploration, science, discovery and sports.

Top billing goes to such events as the discovery of radium by the Curies, the Wright brothers' first flight, the opening of the Suez Canal, and Lindbergh's famous flight across the Atlantic.

Simultaneously, the Army will distribute to schools a series of monthly educational posters dealing at length and in depth with the same subjects featured in the television series. The new television series and school posters tie in with booklets being distributed to schools.

The booklets hum about the merits of education and hiss the prospect of success for school dropouts.

One reason for the pitch for more education: the new Army is a far cry from the one of even a few years ago. Fantastic new equipment, missiles, electronics, automotive maintenance and many other fields require a basic educational background as well as habits of concentration and study.

The best Army careers are open to those men and women who have graduated from high school or college.

One indication of how serious the Army is about helping to boost the educational level of the nation—it has enlisted the aid of educators and guidance counselors in getting the great moments series shown over local television stations in prime time.

Volunteers Classes to Be Held at Academy

Classes for American Red Cross volunteer nurses aides, Gray Ladies, and staff aides will begin Sept. 16 at the Air Force Academy.

According to Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, Academy chairman of volunteers, classes for the nurses aides are scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings through Oct. 2.

Gray Lady and staff aide sessions will be held Sept. 21, 23, 28, and 30 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Classroom courses given by Red Cross and military instructors will be followed by on-the-job training for each volunteer.

Interviews for interested persons are set for Sept. 9, 10, and 11. Appointments for interviews may be made by calling the Academy Red Cross office, 472-1541.

Volunteers are needed to fill assignments at the Academy Hospital and in other areas, Mrs. Hamilton said.

Faye Shafer Hostess To Alpha Chapter, BSP

The first fall meeting of Alpha Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, will be held at 8 p.m. Sept. 14 at the home of the president, Faye Shafer, 1606 Dixon Dr.

Three Men Face Charges in Killing Negro

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Fifty-one days after Lemuel Penn, a Negro educator from Washington, D.C., was shot and killed, three white men face trial today on murder charges.

Penn and two companions were driving home early July 11 from Army Reserve duty at Ft. Benning, Ga., when a second car drew even with Penn's vehicle. Two shotgun blasts were fired into the Negroes' car and the second car roared away.

After an intensive investigation by hundreds of FBI and state agents, four men identified by the FBI as members of the Ku Klux Klan were arrested Aug. 6 at Athens in neighboring Clarke County.

Three of the men were indicted for Penn's murder by a Madison County grand jury, setting the stage for today's trial in the county seat of Danielville.

The indicted men are Joseph Edward Sims, 41; Cecil William Myers, 25, and James S. Lackey, 28. The fourth man, Herbert Guest, 37, is held on a federal charge of conspiring to injure Penn and his companions.

Two Negroes and 94 white persons have been named as possible jurors.

MARAGGOS FILES

DENVER (UPI) — Former Arapahoe County law officer William Maraggos Jr. has filed for bankruptcy in U. S. District Court, listing assets of $21,336.81 and debts of $40,219.77. Maraggos, now an assistant project engineer with Howard Electric Co., was with the Arapahoe County sheriff's office for more than 10 years. He failed in a bid for the sheriff's job as an independent in the 1962 general election.

Last Rites Planned For Gracie Allen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last rites for comedienne Gracie Allen were planned for 3 p.m. today at the Church of the Resurrection at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, with scores of show business folk in attendance.

Among the long-time friends who were to honor the "scatterbrained" wife of George Burns were Jack Benny and George Jessel, both of whom were to deliver eulogies to the beloved comedy star.

Miss Allen, who appeared for many years on "The Burns and Allen Show" on radio, died Thursday night of a heart attack. She was 58.

Cook a cup of converted-type rice according to package directions; add butter to taste. Heat a can of red kidney beans, drain well and mix with the rice. Serve with a topping of minced sweet onion.

Looking At Hollywood
By HEDDA HOPPER
© 1964 By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD—I shook hands with the Beatles at a charity party where over 400, including many stars and their children, paid $25 a ticket to see them, and another 300 who couldn't get in screamed their joy behind a barricade at the end of the street. I've watched all kinds of reactions to celebrities from the hysteria over Rudolph Valentino to the swoons for Frank Sinatra, but the only thing comparable to the Beatles was Charles Lindbergh's visit to our town after he flew the Atlantic. My son was a little boy then. After meeting Lindy, he wouldn't wash his hand for five days. Now I have a granddaughter who won't go near the water because she touched the fabulous four. I can understand why children love them. They're absolutely natural. Once when a reporter asked if they really thought they had talent, one said, "We never really thought so but I guess we were wrong." Nobody ever enjoyed success more than this quartet. They shook hands with every child and parent, patted the babies' cheeks, and were as interested in the celebrities as the stars were in them. When I pointed out to George that Mrs. Jack Wrather was Lassie's boss, he said, "We love Lassie!"

DIRECTOR JOSH LOGAN was a rabid spectator. He and Nedda brought their children and Princess Yasmin, daughter of Aly Khan and Rita Hayworth. Josh couldn't get close enough for an interview, but listened to some of the boys' remarks. When Mayor and Mrs. Sam Sarty came in with their son, nobody made a move to take them through the receiving line, and Yorty didn't want to interrupt. So I led the way. When I made the introduction, the Beatles said "Hi major!" So nice of you to come. Thank you." Edgar Bergen's sophisticated 18-year-old Candy froze completely and couldn't utter a sound when introduced. Ringo said to Sharon Heinz, the 15-year-old pickle heiress, "Haven't I met you before?" "Oh, I wish you had," she sighed. Later she worked her way behind him and combed his hair. "That feels good," he smiled.

I ASKED RINGO how he became a hero here (his photos outsell the others four-to-one). "I can't figure it out, Miss Hopper. Until I came to America I was just a drummer." Maybe it's because we always go for the underdog. Zsa Zsa Gabor's daughter said: "Do you remember me? I'm Francesca Hilton—I met you at the Palladium." David Berrett, 11-year-old son of Jack Warner's head publicist, let his hair grow all summer and looks exactly like a Beatle. The fellows invited him to go along on their tour, but papa said no. David has an I.Q. of 180, goes to a special school for gifted children, and didn't get to sleep until 2 a.m. after his encounter with them. Every fourth child who went thru the line burst into tears because they couldn't go back and do it over again. The boys told me that when all the hysteria is over they want to come back to the United States and really see the country that has given them everything.

THE PARTY WAS GIVEN in Mrs. Henry Olsen's garden in Brentwood. Her daughter, Nancy, is married to Alan Livingston, president of Capitol Records. To make sure the boys arrived safely at their mother-in-law's home, Alan asked Brinks if they would put chairs in two armored trucks and bring them in. That company has transported much precious cargo, but they turned him down: "Somebody might get hurt." When I reached my office the morning after, a telegram was waiting: "Great to meet you. You look fab. Regret had to flee. Love John, Paul, George, Ringo and Beatles." Now if I can just get this darned Beatle pin fastened to my lapel, I'll get to work.

It is believed that paper was the invention of a high Chinese official who lived about 2,000 years ago. He used the beaten fibers of the inner bark of the mulberry tree matted together to form a white sheet.

WORRY CLINIC

Ellen wants to know how you can estimate your own I.Q. so try the simple "news-paper test" described below. If you read this educational column regularly and other medical, political or financial columns, then your I.Q. is probably at least 110. So rate your entire family.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE T-461: Ellen G., aged 18, is a college coed. "Dr. Crane," she began, "is it possible to estimate a person's I.Q. (Intelligence Quotient) without giving him an Intelligence Test?"

"And how much I.Q. is needed to graduate from college?" The I.Q. is based on how well a healthy child can think in comparison with other youngsters of its own calendar age and standard home surroundings.

I.Q. is thus similar to the horsepower of your automobile engine. But a low horsepower engine may still haul more loads if it keeps steadily on the road, than a high powered car that rusts in idleness in the garage.

So I.Q. alone is not the only requisite for success. You need to add "elbow grease," honesty, plus education, etc. The "Army Alpha" was the first successful adult Intelligence Test. It was developed during World War I.

But even without such special I.Q. testing, you can estimate a person's I.Q. fairly well just by his school record.

For example, anybody who graduates from a first class high school has an I.Q. of approximately 110 as a minimum. College graduates would average close to 125.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," Ellen protested, "but suppose a person never had a chance to complete even the 8th grade.

"Maybe he had to drop out of school to help widowed mother and a household of younger brothers or sisters."

"How could he then know if he had a normal I.Q., especially if he never had an official psychological test?"

Well, you can make a shrewd estimate by means of this newspaper!

For example, if you read this educational column regularly, your I.Q. must be 110 or higher.

For people of lower I.Q. are not concerned with college stuff and this column is really a university clinic in modern psychiatry and psychology.

As such, it automatically can indicate if you have a high I.Q. Now don't get the wrong notion, for many people of high I.Q. also relish newspaper features that are liked by those of high I.Q.

Contrast the two columns below. You can enjoy the items at the left with an I.Q. of 90 to 100, whereas it usually requires from 110 to 125 to relish the items at the right.

98-100 I.Q. Comics Crime stories Sports 110-115 I.Q. Worry Clinic Editorial page Financial page

You can easily expand these two lists, but please remember that this simple newspaper test is a quick yardstick for estimating I.Q.

Beware, however, for this rule does not work both ways. Thus, a person of high I.Q. may enjoy comics, sports, etc., but a reader of lower I.Q. tends to avoid the items listed in the right hand column!

Moreover, some hillbillies who couldn't even read and write, still had an I.Q. to match that of college professors, so mere lack of education is not a sure sign of low I.Q. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) Work Dropped On Mid-Range Ballistic Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department formally abandoned Saturday active development of the mobile mid-range ballistic missile designed to fill the gap between the Army's tactical weapons and the submarine-launched Polaris missiles of the Navy.

A Pentagon announcement blamed congressional cutbacks of funds.

More than $100 million has been spent on the mid-range (500 to 1,500 miles) missile since it was approved for development by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1962.

The Pentagon said that although major work on the mid-range system would lapse, it "continues to believe that there is a definite need for this highly mobile, survivable and accurate weapons system and that to the extent congressional appropriations will permit, we should proceed with its development as an insurance program."

The Pentagon said that, with the curtailed funds available, work will continue on a highly accurate guidance system and studies of command and control elements which might be applicable to other weapons programs.

Congress approved $80 million for the mobile mid-range missile in fiscal year 1963. Pentagon requests totaling $143 million for the system in fiscal 1964 were cut to $73.1 million. And in the current year, Congress reduced the Pentagon's request from $110 million to $49 million.

HORROR SPECIALIZATION MILAN, Italy (AP) — A special theater dedicated solely to thrillers and horror shows, like the Grand Guignol in Paris, has been opened in Milan. It is the first of its kind in Italy and is called the Teatro Donadoni, after the late suspense-drama actor Giulio Donadoni.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Motor stocks were uneasy in a mixed stock market early this afternoon as hard bargaining got underway for a new labor contract in the auto industry.

African Berry Promises New Sweet Tooth Taste

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — An African berry, looms as a new boon for people with a sweet tooth, and perhaps those wary about calories.

The berry has the curious ability to make many sour foods "taste delightfully sweet," a food chemist said today.

It apparently works by coating taste buds so that lemons, limes, rhubarb and similar sour foods taste sweet, said Dr. George E. Inglett of the International Minerals and Chemical Corp., Skokie, Ill.

Natives in tropical East Africa — where the berry grows — have long used it to give a welcome taste to sour beer, wine and bread, he said.

Dr. Inglett described experiments with the taste-fooling berry at opening sessions of the American Chemical Society's 148th national meeting.

He and associates have prepared concentrates of the sweetener — as a gluey, tan-colored material — from the football-shaped berries.

Sour things taste sweet for an hour after a bit of the concentrate has been placed in the mouth, he said.

It induces a sweet taste "more desirable than any of the known natural or synthetic sweeteners. Many of the delicate flavors which would ordinarily be masked by sugar appear to be well blended with the sweetness," he said.

Efforts are being made to isolate and identify the sweetener ingredient in the berries, sometimes called "miracle fruit."

The berry material could be helpful to people on low-calorie or other diets — with a sweet tooth — if practical means could be developed for applying it, Dr. Inglett suggested.

It offers an intriguing tool to explore mysteries about taste, and why certain things taste as they do, he said.

Fresh berries keep their sweetening punch for only a few days. The chemists are working with dried, frozen samples of the pulp from berries shipped from Nigeria.

Hot Brake Shoe Sets Bridge Fire Today

A hot chip from a brake shoe set fire to the planking of the Denver and Rio Grande Western bridge near Fountain Valley Park this morning. A fire alarm was turned in at 7:58 a.m. and firemen of Company 1 found some of the planking smoking and extinguished the fire. The damage was slight and did not prevent continued use of the bridge.

Colorado Springs firemen Sunday set up fans and cleared smoke from two houses in which the smoke had come from the kitchen stove. Company 1 went to the residence of Mrs. Ann Jessup, 721 N. Tejon St., where food had burned on the stove. Company 2, at 8:57 a.m., went to the residence of Jerry Adams, 803 N. Walnut St., where grease on the stove had burned.

There were 2,488,365 civilian workers on Uncle Sam's payrolls during the last fiscal year which ended June 30, or $2,201 million more than the average in fiscal 1954.

Ten years ago this federal payroll was just under $9.5 billion. The total last fiscal year was $16.2 billion, or an increase of some $6.7 billion.

The totals are not affected by the recent pay increases voted by Congress for some 1.7 million government workers, including a $7,500 annual boost for senators and representatives to $30,000 a year, commencing Jan. 1.

The employment and payroll data were compiled by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures.

His survey showed 2,491,685 civilians on federal payrolls during July, an increase of 10,303 over June this year. Most of the July increase was in civilian agencies, including the Agriculture, Post Office and Treasury departments.

WASHINGTON — Special to

Gazette Telegraph — The Services may go back to the old post World War I personnel assignment policy which kept enlisted men and junior officers assigned to Washington at a minimum.

As a matter of fact junior officers generally had to have a private income in order to accept such an assignment.

Surveys made recently indicated that too many enlisted men and junior officers must have extra-hour employment to keep out of debt. Preliminary reports advocate replacing as many of these men with civilians as possible.

Retired enlisted men of all the services now have their own organization. It is the Retired Enlisted Association, Inc., with headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. Present plans are to expand to a national organization.

Representatives of the several Veteran organizations are getting plans ready to ask the next session of Congress for an increase in service-connected disability compensation payments. The pending measure would raise only non-service connected pensions.

New Discovery Now Makes It Possible To Shrink And Heal Hemorrhoids Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain In Minutes

New York, N. Y. (Special): A world-famous institute has discovered a new substance which has the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery. The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of the injured tissues all while it quickly reduces painful swelling.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observations proved this so—even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. The secret is the new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — now offered in both ointment or suppository form called Preparation H®. In addition to actually shrinking piles—Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements less painful. It helps to prevent infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this magic new substance which quickly helps heal injured cells back to normal and stimulates regrowth of healthy tissue again. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (easier to use away from home). Available at all drug counters.

No Special Port Calls Set For Atom Subs

WASHINGTON (AP)— Some of the 10 United States nuclear powered submarines now in the Pacific may put into Japanese ports from time to time for visits and to give crews shore leave, but no special in-port calls are planned.

In answer to a question about the new agreement by the Japanese government to permit atomic powered ships to enter ports of that country, the Navy said visits would be of a "routine" nature as is done with any ship in any foreign port.

Because of the almost unlimited operating range of the attack type nuclear submarines, they do not need to use foreign ports for refueling or replenishment of supplies.

Although the Navy did not specifically say so, it is considered unlikely that Polaris missile submarines, which are armed with 16 nuclear warhead rockets each, would visit Japan.

The forward base for that fleet will be in the harbor at Guam, an American island about 1,500 miles southeastward of Japan. A tender and floating drydock will be moored there for replenishment of supplies, minor repair and exchange of crews for the submarines.

Permission for atomic powered ships to enter Japanese ports was obtained only after years of careful negotiation between the two nations and after difficulties for the Japanese government in convincing citizens that no danger of accident existed.

The Japanese had vivid, firsthand experience with atomic explosions over the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

About 1,000 leftists staged a comparatively quiet demonstration in Yokosuka today protesting the scheduled visits.

Yokosuka, 25 miles south of Tokyo, is one of two big naval bases leased by the U.S. navy. The other is Sasebo in Kyushu, Southern Japan.

The demonstration is the first of a series sponsored by the socialist party and other left-wing organizations to protest the formal approval of the port calls.

The socialist party said it would hold a series of nationwide demonstrations equal to — if not surpassing — the anti-U.S. security pact demonstrations of 1961.

More than 5,000 industrial firms in the United States are directly involved in the nation's efforts to put men on the moon.

Washington's English Home Gets Dress Up

By PATRICK J. MASSEY
WASHINGTON, England (AP) — They're planning to spruce up one of George Washington's ancestral homes.

This humdrum community of 19,000 is due for transformation into a bright, modern town with three to four times its present population.

The area has changed little with the centuries. Set in the northeast countryside, just off the Great North Road highway, Washington acquired three coal mines and a chemical factory following the Industrial Revolution but rested secure amid 5,000 acres of agricultural land that government rules have long marked as taboo for building developments.

Now, this all will change. The area is scheduled for rezoning as a "new town," as the English development areas are called. Plans call for an influx of new industries and a rash of housing projects that will quickly chew up the fields and meadows.

In all, some 20,000 new homes are planned.

The whole project will take about 10 years. When it's done, Washington should be one of the most modern communities in England.

The showpiece of the town is still the Old Hall which embodies the remains of the ancient manor house of one branch of the Washington family. The last Washington to own it died in the 15th century but it continued in possession of his heirs, the Tempests and Mallorys.

The yellowish, sandstone Old Hall was condemned in 1934 as unfit for human habitation. A local committee was formed to save the hall and succeeded in buying it.

After extensive renovations, the building was established as a museum and showplace, a shrine visited by American tourists year after year.

Sgt. York Returns To Vets Hospital

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Sgt. Alvin York, 76, ailing World War I hero, was brought to Veterans Administration Hospital Saturday from his Pall Mall, Tenn., home.

The Medal of Honor winner is suffering "a fever and deterioration of his general physical condition," his doctors said. His condition was listed as serious.

It was the 11th hospitalization for York in the past two years and his third trip to a Nashville hospital this year.

Canon School Year Starts Today With Student Gain

The 1964-65 school year for Canon City area youngsters gets underway today, with about 2,750 pupils expected to be enrolled in district schools. Ralph Monell, superintendent of School District Fremont Re-1, has announced.

The number expected is a slight gain over last year's pupil enrollment of 2,705.

Most of the first week of school will be taken up with registration, class orientation, equipment issuing, and other business before school classes get into full swing.

The youngsters will get a reprieve from classes with the Labor Day holiday coming up Monday, Sept. 7.

This past week teachers in the district completed a three-day workshop preparing for the opening of school. The Board of Education and administration staff of the district held a get-acquainted reception for all personnel on Wednesday afternoon at Washington School.

Monell said, "Our faculty is set up, and we are ready to go."

The personnel roster for the district follows. The list includes members of the Board of Education, custodians, bus drivers, administrative and business staffs with secretaries, as well as teachers in the secondary, elementary and primary levels:

SCENE OF THE 1903 MIDLAND WRECK — This photograph, taken at 26th Street in the Colorado Midland Yards, shows cleanup operations when a freight train got loose and came down Ute Pass at 200 miles an hour. Residents of Manitou, seeing it dash across the high trestle over Ruxton Avenue, thought the end of the world had come. Crewmen in the engine had jumped. Those in the caboose were wrapped in mattresses waiting for the crash at the end of the ride. Two crewmen were either killed or seriously injured.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

Today is the 61st anniversary of the wildest runaway train wreck of all. A Colorado Midland Railway freight train, out of control, came down Ute Pass at 200 miles an hour, went through all of the tunnels and over the high trestle in Manitou and slammed into a switch engine at 26th Street.

Peaches from the Grand Junction area were scattered all along the way. Two members of the train crew jumped. Those who were in the caboose wrapped themselves in mattresses. The story, as it came down, is that one or two members of the crew were killed or severely injured. I have not been able to find out which ones.

Dr. J. Franklin Brown, Colorado Springs dentist, who resides at 44 Broadmoor Ave., read my story of the Rock Island runaway train that was wrecked in the roundhouse yard at Roswell and has told me about the old Colorado Midland runaway, and showed me a picture of it, dated Aug. 31, 1903. On it are written the names of the crew: Frank Watts, engineer; James Brandeberry, fireman; William Brown, conductor; and Sam Waugh and Joe Fisk, brakemen.

As there were no airbrakes in that day, the engineer could not hold the train back without the brakes on the freight cars being set. Brakemen had to run along the train on the roofs of the cars and set the brakes. At 200 miles an hour presumably this could not be done. If present railway practice were followed one brakeman was probably riding in the locomotive and the conductor and other brakemen in the caboose.

The great speed of the train must have caused the freight car doors to slide open, for much of several carloads of fruit was strewn along the right of way. Mountain people were picking peaches from the ground and loading them into wagons for two days after the wreck.

Canon City's recently organized and chartered Civil Air Patrol squadron received its first assignment early Saturday, according to John Waldron, commanding officer of the unit.

The squadron was requested to put planes in the air to join an organized search for a light plane carrying four men listed missing on a Friday afternoon flight from Aspen to Greeley.

Aboard the plane were two Catholic priests, and two Colorado State College faculty members.

Two Canon City CAP planes took off at 5 a.m. Saturday to join the search around Eagle.

One plane was piloted by Elmer Smaller with Grace Waldron and Carmon Dunn as observers. The plane was unable to get through to Eagle because of a snowstorm along the Continental Divide.

The other plane, piloted by Carl Strunk with the Rev. Lloyd Sparks as observer, was forced to return due to mechanical trouble.

Waldron said that Col. Arthur Putz, Denver, commander of the Colorado Wing of CAP, credited the Canon City squadron as having the first planes in the air on this search mission.

ARA Sponsored Project Costs Texans Savings

How one phase of the federal government's "war against poverty" demoralized a whole town and left many of its citizens broke is disclosed by Charles Stevenson in a September Reader's Digest article, "When the Bubble Burst in Crockett, Tex."</

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Facts and Fancies

We have a somewhat impassioned plea from Victor Allen of this city which comments on our exchange of views with Roger Coffin. We have numbered the points Mr. Allen makes from 1 to 27 in an effort to save space and to reply specifically to points he has raised.

1 It is useless to discuss facts and fancy in the same breath. But it is not useless to discover principles and to seek to live by them. A principle is not a fancy, but a fact.

2 We do have a government. It is what it is. We also have principles which tell us that the government is committing great wrongs through the use of aggressive force.

3 One of the principles we have is that men actually do govern themselves. That is the fact. Each man controls his own energy. If he controls it in harmony with orders from people in power, it is because he agrees with the orders or because he is fearful of disobeying them. In either case, he controls his own energy. Self-government is not a dream, it is a fact.

4 Self-government always works. It is the only kind of government that does always work. When two people exist on this earth, each governs himself. They learn to work together and to benefit by the work each one does as each learns to specialize.

5 The fact that men differ does not automatically make one wish to rule the other. Rather, it makes life possible. In a society of two men, wherein one man could hunt and the other could build dwellings, both men need each other in direct ratio to the degree of their differences. If both men hunted or both men built shelters, both would be poorer. Their differences improve the standards each can enjoy.

For the hunter to provide the rules whereby the builder is to be guided, or for the builder to provide rules for the hunter, is to reduce the effectiveness of either. For the rules to be provided by a third party who neither hunts nor builds is to reduce the effectiveness of both and to create three consumers at the expense of two producers.

6 The history of man's rise from primitive times is the history of his markets and his production, not the written political histories with which we have been conditioned. Man has not struggled against man in those societies which relied on market place production rather than upon government. When governments are formed, men must struggle against their oppressor.

Equality

The real importance of a doctrine of human rights is found in considering the rights of others. Your own rights are apt to be more respected when you demonstrate by word and deed that you will fully respect the rights of the other person.

Reliance on the Market

11. A vote does not mean that a person is to govern himself. It means, instead, that the person has selected someone else to govern him.

12. A right is a natural attribute and cannot be conveyed by some men or by a government upon men. Voting is a privilege and not a right. The founders did not convey a right. They could not. They conveyed a privilege. The qualifications for voting were left to the separate states. At the outset, no provision was made for the voting of women, Negroes, or many others. The enlargement of the voting privilege to include nearly everyone is merely an extension of the original grant of privilege.

13. We will not be saved by sustaining the instrument which places privilege above or on an equal footing with rights. This is a fundamental denial of the concept that governments obtain their "just" powers from the "consent of the governed." Implicit in this phrase is the idea that each individual must grant his own consent to be governed by others. The practice wherein a majority decision is inflicted upon the minority is a denial of the rights of the minority to their consent.

14. The denial by Mr. Allen that full reliance on the market won't hold water is a dogmatic statement and does not hold water.

15. The market has prevented the Soviet Union from being more than a threat than it is. It happens to be a black market, because the Soviet government does not officially recognize it. It has long been recognized by economists of virtually all persuasion that "if goods and services do not cross boundaries, soldiers will." The best negotiator for peace is, and always has been, the market place. When people look upon other people as customers or suppliers, there is no reason to make war on them.

16. The market does stand between Cuba and the United States. By employing the market place devices the threat of war would be immeasurably reduced and probably eliminated.

17. Yes, the market could have prevented war with Japan. We were at peace with them until we established embargoes. Read the minority report of the investigation into the Pearl Harbor disaster.

18. War does not create wealth, it destroys it. The men who make war "profits" do so by supplying the materials that governments purchase to make war. But the whole people are reduced in wealth by reason of the destruction of war. Wars are all caused by governments. Men, lacking government, may riot and murder and do other unwholesome things. But they must cease their depredations in time and get back to producing. Governments, operating outside and contrary to the market, may and do prey upon their own people's production in order to facilitate their actions against other governments.

19. The market profits when it provides goods and services people want. The market place

IDEA EXCHANGE

To the Editor, George Boardman, Roger Coffin, and all others interested in Freedom.

I have watched with some amusement the exchange of ideas on freedom, liberty and government as published on the editorial pages of the Gazette Telegraph the last few days. I say amusement because Mr. Coffin is trying to be realistic about the present government that we DO exist under and is caught in a crossfire between the editor and Mr. Boardman, who amuse themselves with fancies of an unrealistic utopian state of absolute freedom, that of self-government.

The exchange of ideas are hardly worth the newsprint that they consume because they will benefit no one, except as amusement. 1 It is impossible to discuss fact against fancy and that is the basic element of this exchange of thoughts. The question is, Why vote? So let's drop the fancy and get at the facts.

2 We do have the government that we do have. Not a utopian "Shangri-La" without even as much as a high lama to guide it. There is much wrong with our government today, so much wrong that it would take a miracle to make it right. Self-government might be the welcome miracle as compared to the political machinery we are caught in now. 3 But any person with intelligence enough to read knows that self-government is only a wonderful dream, dreamed by school children and old men. 4 Self-government has never worked and can never work as long as there are two people alive on the face of this earth with different ideas. 5 If their ideas differ even in the slightest, one will try to force his opinion on the other. 6 This has been the history of man since the first record of man's thoughts was recorded. Man's struggle against man, Adam and Eve were the closest to absolute freedom (under God) but this freedom lasted only from their creation to the apple and never again has man had such a chance at true freedom.

7 There have been a few cases of attempts at freedom in its true sense. But all have ended in disaster or a demand for government. The very early pioneers to the new West wanted freedom and a chance to start their lives over in freedom. They came West armed with faith, a plow, a hammer and saw, and a willingness to work. They built their houses, plowed the soil and planted their crops. 8 Right on their heels arrived the second group of pioneers; these came armed with greed, guns and a willingness to take by force anything they wanted. Law was forced to come West and with law came government.

9 One cannot separate one from the other as one cannot exist without the other. Here then is the basic problem. 10 We must have law. And to enforce law, we must have government. Perhaps this is wrong, but it is the way men have made it. 11. A vote in a constitutional government is a sacred trust given to each citizen as his means of helping to govern himself. 12. That is the ideal of the right to vote. This is or was the ideal of the men who signed the original Constitution of the United States giving each citizen that right. However, these same men would undoubtedly vomit upon our modern form of government, but first vomit upon the laxity of the citizens who have allowed it to become what it is. 13. Our only salvation to overcome the greed that is feeding on our government now is through the vote. By sitting back and doing nothing and not voting we would be throwing the country to the wolves without a fight. What could we possibly accomplish by not voting?

14. The editor's suggestion to rely on the market FULLY, does not hold water. 15. Can the market negotiate peace with Russia? 16. Does the market stand between us and Cuba? 17. Did it with Japan in 1941? We know the answer to that. 18. The market in general PROFITS from war. 19. The market profits by the vanity of people and as for the tools of the market, newspapers are in business to make money first, advance ideas second. Other communications are in business first for money, ideas second; the classroom, pay first, second, the lecture hall, for pay mainly but in this country any nut has a right to speak. And last, our biggest letdown, the pulpit, the paid Sunday minister. The men who above all others should know better, have made the church a business. They offer their knowledge of almighty God in exchange for the almighty American dollar. These polished salvation sellers have done their share to collapse the decency of modern man because they offer nothing but professional polish upon the word of God.

20. Are these the people who make up the market that you advise us to rely on fully? If the sophisticated skeptics would get off of their sophisticated butts, roll up their sleeves and do something to HELP govern the government, we might get somewhere with the political machinery. We might get somewhere with the morals of the people of this country. 21. But as long as there are men who can say, "I am what I am and I cannot be reached by the needs of millions," we are still nowhere.

22. Most Americans who still care about freedom realize that we don't just elect a President any more, we elect a professional political machine designed for the sole purpose of keeping itself in business regardless of the good of the country. These political machines have ruined an ideal of freedom that we may never see again unless we act as a nation that wants that freedom back. The power of the vote is our only weapon.

DON'T MAKE SENSE

To the Editor:

The one thing most noticeable is the fact that you never hear as much as a hint of the serious financial condition of our government from all the liberals' chatter. It is always suggested that things were never better financially.

It is a fact, according to Representative Jack Westland and others, the U.S. under Kennedy's administration has signed short-term I.O.U.'s for $654 million to Germany, France, Switzerland and Italy.

The first notes signed bore 3.20 per cent interest during their 20 months' life, but Germany upped the interest to 3.55 per cent on its latest "loan" of $25 million.

The little known transactions began when the four European nations presented their excess dollar reserves to be cashed for U.S. gold. Faced with a steadily mounting deficits-of-payment position, the Kennedy ad-

An About-face in Africa

By RUSSELL KIRK

Little more than a year and a half ago, our State Department was denouncing the wicked "mercenary" of European origin, employed by President Tshombe of Katanga. But today American officials are urging Premier Tshombe of the Congo (yes, the same gentleman who was so reviled in 1961 and 1962) to employ many mercenaries, wherever he can get them. Probably with a certain smile, Moise Tshombe says he'll think about it.

Many of Tshombe's "mercenary" in Katanga were, in fact, Belgian residents of Elisabethville serving with little or no pay, in the hope of keeping anarchy out of Katanga. Doubtless our State Department will tend to let the term "mercenary" fall into disuse. "volunteer" is much more genteel.

Washington at last realizes that unless Moise Tshombe, the cleverest and most tolerant leader in the afflicted Congo, can put down the rebellious tribes and political factions that have taken Stanleyville, Albertville, and much else, the Communist Chinese may gain a real foothold in Africa — without sending a single soldier. The Red Chinese carry on their machinations from Brazzaville, capital of the (French) Republic of the Congo, and from Burundi, the anarchic little "emergent" nation on the (Belgian) Congo's eastern frontier. Tshombe has been endeavoring to dissuade the Brazzaville and Burundi regimes from countenancing Chinese subversion.

Meanwhile, despite alarming press dispatches from the Congo capital of Leopoldville, Tshombe's men in his own Katanga have been making headway against the savage "rebels" in northern Katanga. Many of the Katanga gendarmes, driven into the bush or across the frontiers to Angola and Rhodesia when the U.N. "Peace Force" won its victory of Christmas, 1962, now have been enrolled in Tshombe's army centered at Elisabethville, thousands more of these veterans are expected to join up, and they have a few white "mercenary" officers already.

It is these troops, better disciplined than the so-called Congolese National Army, which seem to be breaking the back of the Communist-influenced rebels in northern Katanga. In the past fortnight, Tshombe's people have retaken Baoudouville, by storm; have turned back the rebel host that was pressing toward the military base of Kamina; have won a sharp fight at administration asked for permission to sign notes, instead of paying cash.

This is the first time in living memory that we've had to borrow money from foreign governments.

Westland said the American people are certainly unaware of this gimmick, which merely postpones the day when our fiscal "chickens come home to roost." Several of the notes will not come due until after the presidential election this year.

Westland said he asked the Federal Reserve official how many more of such non-negotiable I.O.U.'s we would be able to sign before a day of reckoning arrived and was told, "We are getting close to the end of the line right now."

In the last year of the Eisenhower administration, our balance of payments deficit was $3,200,000,000. Candidate Kennedy repeatedly harped on the danger of such fiscal unbalances during the campaign but it is now running at the rate of $5,000,000,000 yearly and steadily mounting.

Westland said he cannot comprehend why President Kennedy, knowing of the impending crises, demanded that the half-billion dollar House cut in foreign aid be restored.

"While we are forced to borrow from prosperous European governments at high interest rates," he said, "the President is simultaneously insisting that we donate money or long-term, low-interest loans to other countries throughout the world, including such leftist ones as Indonesia, Afghanistan, Yugoslavia and India. It just doesn't make sense, and can rapidly bankrupt us."

He pointed out that President Eisenhower, in order to reduce the balance of payments deficit, had set in motion a plan to reduce American military dependents overseas but one of President Kennedy's first official acts was to cancel the order.

Manono, and have forced the rebels to retire from Kabalo. In time, they should be able to retake Albertville.

Yet no matter what skirmishes Tshombe's more loyal troops win, and no matter how many white volunteers are recruited, and no matter how many planes and guns — and even paratroopers — Washington sends to Leopoldville, the Congolese government cannot pacify the vast and almost impenetrable expanse of the Congo by force alone. The arts of diplomacy are required.

For Tshombe must reach some agreement with the principal disaffected tribal leaders of Oriente and Kivu provinces, and other troubled regions. Though these chieftains accept advice and what arms they can get from the Red Chinese agents, they are not Communists themselves; they know nothing about ideology. What they demand is a higher degree of local autonomy, principally, like Tshombe himself, they cannot accept the highly centralized governmental pattern which Belgium foolishly tried to impose in the first months of Congolese independence, and which the United Nations representatives endeavored to sustain by the "Peace Force."

If Moise Tshombe can succeed both as diplomat and as strategist, he may make the Congo into one of the most powerful states of the new Africa — and one reasonably friendly to the West.

Question Box

Question No. 576: "Does the successful businessman regard it as moral and thus beneficial in the long run to the public, tool owners, employees, and those seeking better jobs, to pay any employee more than another worker will do the same job?"

Answer: This question is very important. If people understood the advantages which come from a free market and free competition where all people are equally permitted to help establish values, our production would go way up. There would be practically no unemployment, except perhaps seasonally or when workers are looking for a better job. The employee would be much better off if he knew that he was actually earning his wages which all employees must do if, in the long run, a job is to be permanent. The employees would get the satisfaction of knowing that they were not getting anything for nothing and that they were self-reliant and independent.

To pay any employee more than another worker will do the same work for, in the long run, tends to confuse the employee and the employer. It tends to cause the employer to believe he can interfere with the free market and be useful to his customers. When he pays more than what others will do the same work for, he has to keep his prices up and thus make his customers pay more and is not able to increase his volume of business.

Any business that is serving the public should grow as rapidly as possible so as to reduce the cost of what people consume and raise real wages of all persons. Then everyone would get all they produce in the long run and be much better satisfied and happier. This is true because happiness is a by-product of doing the hardest job a man can do, and doing it well.

Most people seem to think that wages come out of the air and that each worker doesn't have to produce his own wages. The employer is just an agent

Tongue in Cheek?

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

A couple of years ago, my wife discovered a few blatantly slanted comic strips which made Social Security socialist libraries and other socialist oddities appear to be a mong the wonders of the world. As we examined these little gems, I remarked that the artist might be trying a bit of sarcasm on for size — tongue in cheek stuff. I also remembered a little trouble I unearthed a time or two when the urge to use sarcasm in my column managed to get the best of me. I've also done some listening when experienced newspapermen have expressed opinions about tongue-in-cheek humor and sarcasm as substitutes for straight reportage, and I've leaned to see the dangers inherent in such tactics.

Now, let's take a look at a heading over a Chicago (AP) undated line: "ZIP SENDS LETTERS AT NEW RECORD SPEED." I didn't see anything of a tongue-in-cheek nature about that heading and a lot of people never read the small print. Quite a pitch for the ridiculous zip code foolishness.

The first paragraph reads, "The zip in the mails these days has letters circling the globe at record-breaking speeds." Finally now, we come to the paragraph which provides an indication of things to come.

"Take the 57 days it took Harry S. Albin's letter to get across the street." Funny, isn't it, but I'm not sure that Mr. Albin found the situation full of humor.

Reading further, I discovered no information which would lead me to believe the letter actually circled the globe since it was sent to Brazil by mistake. As a beginning for a topper, I found a paragraph informing me, "Albin's printing office is at 1223 S. Wabash."

I began to wonder if the person who wrote that item can be a natural-born humorist or a victim of progressive education, but my wonder was short-lived when I discovered Mr. Segal, to whom the letter was trying to sell what each of his employees produces. He must keep his cost down so that he can increase business and lower his prices.

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well being of all mankind on this earth.

addressed, has offices at 1138 S. Wabash and I hope you don't try to find that address across the street from Albin's printing office.

Now, I'm not concerned about the person who sent the letter or the man who finally received it 57 days later. Anybody who used the silly zip thing deserves whatever happens. I am concerned about the innocent victims who read the heading and maybe the first paragraph and idle, nonsensical rumors that use of the zip code speeds up delivery of the mail. There are also the people who only know what they read in the papers and they only read the headlines and the comics.

Have you ever tried to figure out why your post-office monopoly is working with such feverish anxiety at trying to sell you the zip stuff? In the first place, your government never admits it makes a mistake if it can figure a way out. There was a lot of talk about automation but that scared post-office hired help and, hurriedly, Mr. P. O. explained that zip would not reduce the number of employees needed to operate the department. There's also the fact that the advertised automatic equipment hasn't been invented yet.

Logically, chances of errors increase in direct relation to the number of items involved and the addition of the zip number increases the opportunities for errors. What happens if you type or write a correct address but use the wrong zip number? What happens when you use the wrong address with the correct zip number? If you address an envelope correctly but add the wrong zip number but discover the letter was delivered to the correct address, regardless, you may suspect that the incorrect zip number was ignored. On the other hand, if the address is wrong and the zip number is correct, how do you want to bet on your chances of having the letter delivered to the right address?

Now, if you happen to be one of the people who believe they are able to limit government, the zip code provides you with a great opportunity to prove your point by refusing to use the zipper, and this is probably the best chance you'll ever have to try to prove that point. It's just a matter of not being as foolish as your government believes you are.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

How to Keep Well
By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN
To the limit of a person's ability, the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamps are enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individuals.

CHAFING (INTERTRIGO)

"I am a rather stout woman and dread hot weather, as it causes irritation and painful blisters on my thighs and under the breasts. Can anything be done about this?"

This is intertrigo (chafing) a form of dermatitis. It occurs in two folds of skin, such as between the buttocks, legs, or under pendulous breasts.

The eruption is a major nuisance, especially among the overweight. Moisture, heat, and friction are the culprits. In hot, humid weather, the skin folds are almost continually wet with perspiration. This leads to maceration similar to that which occurs when the hands for example, are exposed to water for an hour or more. But in intertrigo, the rubbing together of two moist surfaces leads to eruptions. This is painful, especially when open sores develop in the groin and other sensitive areas. Initially, the skin smart and is red; if irritation continues the area begins to weep which, in turn, encourages open fissures. In time, bacteria or fungi may invade the area and the ensuing inflammation gives off an offensive odor.

What can be done? Eliminate tight clothing to reduce friction and promote the evaporation of sweat. Scrupulous cleanliness helps eliminate bacteria and other debris. Wash gently with mild soap and warm water once or twice daily — and be sure to rinse all soap from the skin. Dry thoroughly with a soft towel and apply talcum or a mild antiseptic powder. Calamine lotion is useful.

Bed rest may be needed when painful blisters form. It may be necessary to aerate the involved areas until irritation subsides and the blisters heal. Our reader should lose weight and keep the skin clean and dry. A nonchafing bra is recommended; this calls for an individual fitting.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request. Tomorrow: Sick Cell Anemia.

Chronic Fatigue

C. R. writes: What would cause a man to remain tired all the time even though he sleeps well and does not overwork?

Reply

Among the physical causes are infections, anemia, and a lazy thyroid. But in the vast majority of victims of chronic fatigue, the cause is psychological. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on fatigue.

Recurring Phlebitis

L. V. writes: If a person develops phlebitis after an auto accident, is he likely to get it again?

Reply

Probably not, because the vein was injured in an accident. Recurrences are more likely to take place when the phlebitis follows childbirth or surgery. In this respect, those who have had the disorder stand a greater chance of developing the condition again.

Cold Extremities

Mrs. E. H. writes: My husband has diabetes and hardening of the arteries. He takes pills the doctor prescribed. When the chest pain is real bad, his hands and feet get ice cold. What is the best way to warm them?

Reply

A heating pad — turned low. What about the pain? It is more important.

Reaction to Penicillin

Mrs. B. D. writes: Once a person becomes allergic to penicillin, will he remain that way for life?

Reply

Yes. But allergy to penicillin does not mean allergy to other antibiotics or to the sulfonamides. These drugs may be used to control infections.

STILL DANCING

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dorothy Provine, who starred as a saloon dancer in the defunct "Roaring 20's" video series, has been cast in "The Great Race" as a saloon dancer.

Army Lt. Col. Arthur J. Lacouture Jr., who commanded the 4th Battalion, 7th Artillery, a Nike Hercules missile unit, in Austin, Tex., received recognition of distinguished service while holding this post. The unit was designated by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commanding general of the U. S. Army Air Defense Command, as winner of the 1964 Commander's Trophy for the best Regular Army battalion during the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Col. Lacouture, presently assigned as chief of Analysis Branch, Combat Developments Division, Headquarters, Army Air Defense Command at Ent Air Force Base, entered the Army in June 1943. He received his bachelor's degree in 1943 from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., and his master's degree from the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, in 1955.

Pvt. Lotus A. Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Hunter Sr., completed eight weeks of basic military training at The Women's Army Corps Center, Fort McClellan, Ala., Aug. 21. During the training Pvt. Hunter received instruction in subjects such as Army history and traditions, administrative and supply procedures and first aid. Private Hunter is a 1964 graduate of William Jackson Palmer High School.

Airman Second Class Gary L. Wisecup, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wisecup of Texas Creek, has been selected outstanding airman of the month in his Strategic Air Command (SAC) squadron at Francis E. Warren Air Force Base in Wyoming.

Airman Wisecup, a fire protection specialist, was chosen for the honor in recognition of his exemplary conduct and duty performance. He is assigned to the 809th Civil Engineering Squadron, which supports the SAC mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

Second Lt. James M. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wood of Marshall, Tex., has entered the U. S. Air Force pilot training at Reese Air Force Base, Tex.

Wood's wife, Ruth, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. McCormick, 425 N. 15th Street, Canon City.

The lieutenant was commissioned upon his graduation from the U. S. Air Force Academy in 1964. He holds a B. S. degree in engineering science.

Walter Bragg, son of Mrs. Emma J. Bragg of 936 East Rio Grande St., recently enlisted in the U. S. Air Force for training in the Mechanical Aptitude area. He is presently at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Tex. Following basic training at that base he will be sent to an Air Force Technical Training School or to a duty assignment for on-the-job training within the Aptitude area for which he enlisted. He chose this Aptitude area after completing the Air Force Aptitude test, which he took before his departure from home. Before he enlisted he graduated from Palmer High School this year.

T. Sgt. Bruce S. Adams, the local Air Force Recruiter, whose office is at Room 219, Post Office Building, in Colorado Springs, maintains the latest information on Air Force technical training and educational opportunities, through enlistment. He may also be contacted by telephoning 633-7478, anytime of the day or night.

Monster Bomber To Be Tested In Air at Last

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — The giant XB70A bomber — dubbed "Cecil, the seacick sea serpent" by its pilots — is scheduled to make one or two high-speed waddles down the runway this week in a final check before its long-delayed first flight.

The 185-foot monster finally reached near-takeoff speed in its fourth taxi test last week after minor leaks in its hydraulic lines stopped three runs short of the 110-knot ground speed goal.

Brief as they were, the runs were long enough for its pilots to experience a new kind of cabin motion — from side to side instead of up and down — apparently due to the fact that the plane's long, thin fuselage extends 110 feet forward of its landing gear.

Test pilot Al White of North American Aviation, Inc., which built the plane, said the lateral motion is "enough to make you wobble in your seat."

"We call it the Cecil shuffle," said copilot Joe Cotton, an Air Force lieutenant colonel. "You know, the seacick sea serpent."

Neither pilot expects the wobble to last beyond takeoff or to interfere with the taxi tests.

No date has been set yet for first flight of the XB70A, designed to carry bombs over intercontinental distances at speeds up to 2,000 miles an hour.

When it does fly, it will spend two hours maneuvering in the air, then land at nearby Edwards Air Force Base, where a long series of test flights will begin.

One-Fifth of World's Population Chinese

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The world's present population is about 3.25 billion and one-fifth live within Red China's borders, the 1963 U.N. Demographic Yearbook estimates.

The book, issued Sunday, says because of the increasing birth rate and decreasing death rate, the world is adding almost 63 million persons a year.

Central America is the fastest growing region in the world with population rising at 2.9 per cent annually; Tokyo is still the largest city with a population of 8,613,000; the average death rate is highest in the Ivory Coast, at 33.3 per 1,000; and Haiti leads in the infant mortality rate with 180.4 infant deaths per 1,000 live births.

RESEARCH GRANT

FORT COLLINS (UPI)—Colorado State University has received two National Institutes of Health facility grants totaling $268,000. The money will be used for construction of a physiology research laboratory and for an addition to the biological building.

DENVER (UPI)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey's old pharmacy professor remembers the Democratic vice presidential candidate as a student who asked a lot of questions and "looked you square in the eyes" when he spoke to you.

Verne N. Seeley, a co-founder of the now-defunct Capitol College of Pharmacy in Denver, taught Humphrey when the

Professor Remembers Student HH

Minnesota senator was a 22-year-old aspiring pharmacist taking Seeley's intensive 15-week course in order to pass his state examinations.

Humphrey came to Denver from Huron, S.D., in 1933 to take the course. He had been forced to leave college to help his parents during the depression.

"We didn't give any marks. The only purpose of the school was to get these people prepared for the state exams. Humphrey was determined to get prepared," Seeley said.

Humphrey fired questions at the instructor and seemed to have an insatiable craving for knowledge, Seeley recalled.

"You can usually spot the sharpies pretty quickly," Seeley said. "You guard against them because they're trying to trap you."

"Not this fella, though. He just had an inquisitive mind. His questions were sincere. He just wanted to know."

"When he spoke to you he looked you square in the eyes. I've seen him a couple of times since then, and he still looks at people he's talking to that way."

Seeley said he did not see Humphrey after 1933 until 1946, when Humphrey was mayor of Minneapolis. He said Humphrey recognized him then.

Seeley is semi-retired.

Baker Is Sued For $384,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Senate majority secretary Robert G. (Bobby) Baker has been slapped with a $384,000 suit by a one-time business partner, Mrs. Gertrude C. Novak.

Mrs. Novak, in the suit filed in U.S. District Court here, said Baker "fraudulently induced" her to sell her part of the Carousel Motel in Ocean City, Md., for $184,000 less than she would have received if she had sold it to a prospective Texas buyer.

Mrs. Novak also asked for punitive damages of $200,000.

Named as co-defendants in the suit are the Serv-U Corp., Baker's vending machine firm which bought the motel; Ernest

C. Tucker, an official of Serv-U and Baker's law partner, Mrs. Baker, also a Serv-U and a former motel partner, and Mrs. Novak's brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Novak, who were one-time partners in the Carousel operation.

In February, 1963, Serv-U purchased the motel from the partners for $1,016,566. Mrs. Novak received non-negotiable notes totaling $63,789, for her 25 per cent share. Baker had 50 per cent of the partnership.

In her suit, however, Mrs. Novak charges that in November, 1962, Baker was given a firm offer of $1.5 million for the motel by Robert F. Thompson, vice president of the Tecon Co. of Dallas.

Demo Ticket Takes Unique View for Presidential Race

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—President Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, in accepting the Democratic presidential and vice presidential nominations, have taken a line unique in this generation.

Without saying it flatly, they made the point that their fight in this campaign is not so much with the Republican party as with the supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

In doing this they sought to make the Democratic party — by calling it a "people's party" and a "national party" — a rallying point for all anti-Goldwater forces in or out of the Republican party.

But if Johnson and Humphrey follow the technique they used Thursday night at the Democratic convention, Johnson will be making lofty speeches without direct name-calling while Humphrey tries to hit Goldwater between the eyes.

Johnson was mild, talking of the needs and the glorious possibilities of the future and never once mentioned either the Republicans or Goldwater by name. He presented himself as a man with his eyes on the future.

The more earthy Humphrey talked of the here and now, in this case the fight against Goldwater whom he named by name. Like Johnson, Humphrey was gentle on the Republicans as a party.

Item by item he mentioned major programs approved by Congress in the past few years in which he said Democrats and Republicans joined forces while Goldwater disapproved.

Just how long Johnson retains his aloof and above-the-strife technique may depend on how soon, and to what degree, Goldwater starts to butt heads with him directly. Goldwater has not been reluctant to do this in the past.

But while Johnson refrained from directly mentioning Goldwater by name, he made statements which could not be interpreted as anything but swipes at the Arizona senator.

"The contest today," Johnson said, "is not between liberals and conservatives, party and party, platform and platform. It is between those who see what can be and those who want only to maintain the status quo."

He pitched his speech on the theme that the nation has a lot of unfinished business — particularly programs in the social welfare field — and that under his leadership they would be fulfilled.

Then, building up to the oblique assault on Goldwater Johnson said that for 30 years men of both parties have "built a solid foundation for our present prosperity."
